Car Strikes and Kills Paul Pierce

Paul Pierce, 49, Sikeston, tractor - trailer driver for Swift and Company in Dexter, died Thursday at 10 p.m., in Ste. Genevieve County Memorial hospital as the result of a traffic accident at 8:30 p.m. one half mile north of the intersection of highway 61 and route K in Ste. Genevieve county.

His vehicle developed trouble and blocked both highway lanes, the state patrol said.

He was standing on the shoulder near the rear of his truck trying to flag traffic around it when he was struck by a car driven by Jerome Robert Zimmer, 20, Cape Girardeau.

Pierce, 306 Illinois, was born in Gainsville, Ark., July 17, 1920.

He lost control on wet pavement in a rain, went off the highway and overturned.

Slick pavement resulted in a head injury to Bernice Weedle, 39, Warrenton, in an accident Thursday at 11 a.m. on highway 61, two miles two miles north of Brewer in Perry county.

An unidentified car stopped in front of a 1969 Ford, driven by Albert Gaydos, 27, Mattese, and a 1969 Oldsmobile, driven by the Weedle woman, who was driving behind Ford. Brakes of both cars were applied and the cars slid off the road but did not collide.

Air Service Survey Will Be Made

Gene Williams, a representative of Mid- Continent Airlines, Memphis, conferred with city officials Thursday about air service for Sikeston. Meeting with Williams were members of the Chamber of Commerce, airport board and city government.

Sikeston as a stopover point if the company begins daily service between Memphis and St. Louis was discussed.

The company will make a survey and study the possibilities. Williams said he would report to the city by Sept. 20.

Blackwell Renews Tax Hike Opposition

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, today labeled Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' call of a special session to boost the income tax unnecessary and "the most flagrant disregard of the people's will that I have ever witnessed."

Blackwell, Senate President Pro Tem, said in a statement:

"I am informed, without knowledge as to the truth of it, that a sufficient number of senators have been coerced, conned, stampeded or dealt with in such manner that they are now ready to switch and vote for an increase in the personal income tax.

I am further informed that the name of each senator who has now agreed to vote for the unneeded tax raise will not be publicly disclosed for fear that his constituents, a very great majority of whom are against this tax increase, might by public outcry and personal contact change the senator's vote again. Could a more deplorable situation exist within a democratic form of government where the elected representatives supposedly vote the will of a majority of the people?"

He urged Missourians to write their senators and representatives and let them know the public stand on the income tax increase.

"They will heed you," he said. "Such a tax increase is simply not needed at this time and the six cents you spend now for a stamp to write your senator or represenative may save you hundreds of dollars in taxes next year."

Blackwell quoted Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, as estimating the tax bill proposed by the governor would increase income tax revenues to between $250 million and $270 million a year. That would be from $100 million to $120 million over present revenues.

Blackwell said that much money was not needed and Hearnes just wanted the money to "throw around and waste."

He called it "a fraud — the whole bit." He said the senators who have agreed to vote for the higher tax on corporate and individual incomes "have been stampeded."

Blackwell said he assumed the governor approached Senate Majority Leader A. Basey Vandandingham, D-Columbia, or the other way around, and they agreed that while Blackwell was in the middle of a confusing marital situation it was time to move for the tax boost.

"While he's down let's whack him a time or two," Blackwell said he thought was the agreement of the governor and Vanlandingham.

It was the only direct mention he made of his recent marriage to his secretary, the former Miss Carolyn Sue Ravenscraft.

In his call for the special session, Hearnes said the tax boost he had in mind would boost revenues by $65 million a year. He said the additional money was absolutely necessary to carry on present programs, needed new ones and meet the requirements of public schools and mental institutions.

Blackwell said the administration is not reporting all the revenue. Even with the administration's figures, he said, there should be a surplus of $42 million this year and at least $21 million the following year—all with no new taxes.

He charged Hearnes didn't want the hidden money discovered because he wanted the tax increase right now, even though it was not needed.

Blackwell said the tax revenue increased 12.5 per cent from the 1966-67 fiscal year to the 1967-68 fiscal year. Yet the administration said the increase from the 1967-68 fiscal year to the 1968-69 fiscal year was less than 6 per cent.

"In my opinion," Blackwell saod, "the economy in 1968-69 was better than in 1967-68."

He said he would do anything in his powers in any way he could to defeat he income tax bill that forms the centerpiece of the special session starting next Monday.

Nuclear Test Put off Again

GRAND VALLEY, Colo. (AP) -- An underground nuclear explosion scheduled for western Colorado was postponed for a second time today by the weather advisory panel for Project Rulison.

The Atomic Energy Commission rescheduled the blast for Saturday afternoon after a lengthy weather briefing session and debate.

The delay of the detonation, originally scheduled for Thursday, is costing the private contractors involved an estimated $31,000 a day, according to a spokesman.

Winds which swung from the southeast toward the east during the night and scattered electrical thunderstorms sweeping across the Colorado River Valley caused the decision despite forecasts the winds might improve during the day.

Another briefing was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. MDT, today.

Capt. C. W. Keith of the Colorado State Patrol said it was unlikely the shot will take place Sunday because of traffic problems involved on western Colorado highways.

The 40-kiloton shot, carrying the code name Project Rulison, was scheduled to be touched off today in a hole bored 8,442 feet below Battlement Mesa, 40 miles northeast of Grand Junction in western Colorado.

The test manager's advisory panel okayed the shot Thursday night, after a 24-hour delay caused by unfavorable winds and the possibility of thunderstorms.

The blast was scheduled for 5 p.m. EDT, subject to a review by the advisory board this morning.

A joint project of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and the Austral Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., the blast is designed to shake natural gas out of tight sandstone formations deep in the earth.

Groups seeking to block the shot carried their case three times unsuccessfully to the courts.

Project managers estimate that as much as 60 billion cubic feet of gas may be released.

Vote Needed For Liquor by Drink Sales

Manual Drumm, city attorney, reported this morning that according to an opinion made in 1966 from the state Attorney General's office, vote would be required for liquor by the drunk sales should Sikeston and Miner consolidate.

Drumm cited an opinion dated Nov. 23, 1966. It says when one city has liquor by the drink and one does not an election must be held to determine if all the citizens desired such an ordinance.

There are petitions circulating in Miner that would request the Miner board of trustees to ask the Sikeston City Council to resolve to consolidate if enough signatures are obtained.

Miner has a liquor by the drink ordinance. Sikeston does not.

Crop Progress on Display at Center

By LEO SCHADE

PORTAGEVILLE — Progress in crop growth with weed and insect control was demonstrated at the University of Missouri Delta Center Thursday.

The center opened in the early 1960s, when two plots of ground were given to the university by Mrs. Margaret Marsh and her daughter, Mrs. Matilda Cavanaugh.

A plot of 192 acres, where the offices are located at the south edge of the city was the starting point.

A second section of 666 acres at the intersection of routes T and TT, six miles south of city, was added later. Mrs. Marsh the principal benefactor, died Wednesday.

Tours yesterday were on by six twin bed wagons, mounted with bales of hay, and pulled by tractors, with a seating capacity of approximately 50 each.

Agriculture plots demonstrations were by extension and research leaders, Joe Scott, Harold D. Kerr, Henry DiCarlo, George T. Hull, Leonard Hand, C. M. Woodruff, James Roth, Keith Harrendorf, David Pratt, Leo Duclos, E. B. Nace and W. P. Sappenfield.

Experiements were shown to solve weed control problems in cotton and soybeans and increased crop quality and production.

A sugar beet project, which has been developed in the three counties of New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin, for seven years, has proven successful. It will be a future development when an allotments in acreage has been approved for the area. Three hundred acres were used n the experiment.

Plots of deep plowing were shown where a clay soil is found 27 inches deep with 25 per cent clay, compared to the topsoil where only 6 per cent clay soil is found.

Research in soybeans is being made. From 10 to 20 varieties are being tested in four major soil types. Improvement in insect control has brought satisfactory results only to have a new variety of insects to be discovered.

The latest soybean plant destroyer was found last year and is being watched. It is a weed borer in the plant known as dectes spinosus, a form of larvae that was found near Frawley, five miles west of Portageville.

The insect enters the plant near the stem, laid its eggs inside the plant. Larvae travels downward in the stem and on its return upward weekens the plant and it breaks six to ten inches above the ground with the slightest touch.

SPACE LAW

Some 2,000 attorneys from 103 nations will meet for six days beginning Sunday, Sept. 7, in Bangkok, Thailand, to discuss problems of international law. This is the fourth annual conference on World Peace Through Law and the first to be held in Asia.

The aim is not at "world government" nor even some kind of international charter but the proliferation of international treaties and the free international exchange of legal information. The President of the World Peace Through Law Center, Charles S. Rhyne, says: "The more law we have, the more peace we have." Retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman of the World Association of Judges, will preside at sessions of his group.

One of the subjects on the Bangkok agenda is outer space law. A United Nations treaty provides that the moon is free for exploration and use by all states. Outer space including the moon and other celestial bodies is not subject to national appropriation. No state has ever protested against the passage of satellites through air space above its territory.

However, some international lawyers feel it is time to consider laws governing such other problems as assistance to astronauts in distress, damages caused by space vehicle landings on earth, and the like. Some experts suggest it is time for a formal agreement defining space sovereignty. This would help clarify the right of innocent passagy through the upper reaches of space.

A GREATER POWER

Death tolls in states that were swept by the winds of the hurricane "Camille" continue to mount as more bodies are recovered. Many roads are still closed by obstructions left in the wake of the big wind, and communications are just getting back to normal in some areas. The homeless are even now still temporarily housed. And it will be many months, and possibly years, before some areas gain a semblance of their pre-storm condition.

We live in a wondrous age. An age of conveniences unknown as recently as a decade ago. Man has touched the moon. He has photographed Mars. The atom has been split. Polio is no longer the dread disease it once was. High speed travel has been extended from the skies to the rails and highways. Longevity has reached peaks unheard of. Hearts and other vital organs have been taken from one person or animal and placed in the body of another.

But there is still a greater power. Some view the ravages of nature, such as Camille, or the floods we have witnessed in many of our river ports, as a warning to man - a reminder of that greater power. They could be right. They are effective reminders of the strength of God's powers.

There is another side of these tragedies that should not be overlooked: At no time other than times of disaster do men and women of all age groups, religions and races gather together in a spirit of mutual cooperation. The pettiness of bigotry and dissent are set aside by all with few exceptions. We learn on one another in unity of purpose which, were it not for the tragedies that bring us together in the first place, would be a thing of true beauty.

Perhaps we should all take a long hard look at the aftermath of these tragedies. The clean up and the search for loved ones should be reviewed after the fact and kept alive in our memories and our hearts. Tragedy is the great equalizer. It knows no limits. It touches all of us. How deep and how permanent the impact is up to us.

GOVERNMENT SPENT $18 BILLION ON WELFARE PROGRAMS IN 1968

Spending by Federal, state and local governments for all welfare programs based on the NEED of the benefit recipients totaled close to $18 billion in fiscal 1968, about two - and - one - half times the cost eight years earlier.

Included in the total are dozens of separate welfare programs -- public assistance, cash and medical care for the aged, blind, disabled, and families with dependent children; other hospital and health care, child welfare, food stamps, school lunches, and special Office of Economic Opportunity programs.

Public assistance is the largest group of these programs, and aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) is the biggest single assistance program.

Excluded in this computation, pointed out the new study PUBLIC WELFARE PROGRAMS: ISSUES, PROBLEMS AND PROPOSALS, are such other programs as education, social security and veterans benefits which are not determined by the need of the recipient.

The number of persons receiving AFDC "increased at the rate of 325,000 a year." The number rose from just over 3 million to almost 6 million in the 1960-1968 period. It is estimated there will be almost 7 million on the rolls in fiscal 1970 (begun July 1, this year).

Continuous increases in AFDC rolls have been attributed to a variety of factors: accelerated migration of unskilled rural migrants to urban areas; recent court decisions nullifying local welfare residency requirements; shortened waiting periods for eligibility; relaxation of eligibility standards and other reasons.

Attempting to cut the growth in recipient rolls in 1967, Congress put a mandatory freeze on the number of children for which the Federal government would make matching payments. Congress also stipulated that certain AFDC recipients (generally, able-bodied adults) would lose benefits if they refused without good cause to take a job or undergo training for a job. The freeze was supposed to go into effect on July 1, this year, but the effective date has been postponed.

Proposals for AFDC reform include suggestions for establishing through Federal legislation a national minimum benefit level and other more sweeping "federalization" of the welfare system, including financing. Opponents say the latter approach would remove the states' administrative role and absolve them from any part of the programs' cost; and that "federalization" would also "stifle the local and regional experimentation required" to develop more adequate solutions to the welfare problem.

It has also been suggested, said the study, that the present system be replaced in whole or in part by a negative income tax, minimum income support and a family or children's allowance plan. Critics contend the administration of a negative income tax plan would be anything but simple; that such plans are inherently inequitable and involve politically prohibitive costs. They say, according to the study, that the most promising programs for the alleviation of poverty lie in job creation and work training.

However, the Foundation noted, evaluation of alternatives to the present system should rest upon more evidence than is yet available as to relative costs and achievements. "Much will depend on the effectiveness of methods to make presently dependent children productive and self-supporting, thus breaking the vicious circle of poverty."

SWINGING BACK TOWARD A MORE EVEN KEEL

The nation is accustomed to budgetary "surprises."

The art or science of predicting where a fiscal year will wind up when all the figures are in -- even giving or taking a billion or two -- is a skill that eludes the best brains in the government who have devoted lifetimes to studying the economy and how it affects and is affected by that vast, amorphous and immensly complicated thing called the national budget.

But memory fails to recall the last time the surprise was so far on the black side of the ledger. Usually it is the other way around – a projected deficit of $1 billion turns out to be a deficit of $4 billion, or something equally outlandish.

This time, a projected surplus (a rarity in itself) that was pegged at $900 million as recently as last May proved to be too low by a factory of more than three. The end of fiscal 1969 on June 30 found the U. S. treasury with receipts exceeding expenditures by an imposing $3.1 billion.

The country is still suffering from the inflationary influences of the staggering Johnson administration deficit of $25.4 billion in fiscal 1968 and the smaller deficits that preceded it with annual regularity. The current surplus, the first since 1960 and the largest since 1957, is likely to do more to cool the overheated economy than any amount of tinkering with interest rates or other such "fine tuning."

It is not only that this $3.1 billion should help to retire some of the national debt, the interest charges on which are alone claiming more than $17 billion a year out of the budget. Just as important will be its psychological effect. If people -- businessmen and labor leaders, consumers and congressmen – believe that the economy is entering a "dis-inflationary" cycle (not "deflationary," for that is too scary a word), that belief will itself tend to reinforce all the other signs of such a trend.

The Nixon administration forecast a surplus of $6.3 billion for fiscal 1970 before the 10 per cent income tax surcharge was extended, or a "small" deficit if the surcharge was not extended. The fact that the experts were $2.2 billion off in their estimates for fiscal 1969 only a month before it ended tempers optimism, however.

A lot can happen between now and next July. The nation is still a long way from solving the mystery of how to have prosperity without at least a little inflation and a little unemployment, or how to meet the goals it sets for itself without printing at least a little unemployment, or how to meet the goals it sets for itself without printing at least a little funny money.

But the taxpayers' surprise gift of $3.1 billion to the treasury gives hope that, for the present at least, the financial ship of state is swinging back toward a more even keel.

NEW YORK (AP) — Eventually it will all come out in the wash. But today's laundress needs a degree in chemistry to make sure it does.

Where once a dash of soap was all it took for a white Monday, now there's a bewildering array of detergents, water conditioners, brighteners, blueings, bleaches, fabric softeners, sizing agents, enzyme soakers and finishes.

Oh, I'm not suggesting that we housewives go back to pounding the dirty clothes on a rock at the neighborhood stream. I don't even urge that we return to the galvanized washtub and corrugated scrub board.

But I do look back with nostalgia to the good old days when you could throw the contents of the laundry hamper into a machine, push a few buttons here and there and sit down for another cup of coffee.

In order to employ all the latest scientific laundry aids, I now have to stand by with a stopwatch, an instruction booklet, a textile manual for judging the type of fabric involved, a microscope for determining the nature of the various stains and a whole shelf full of lotions and potions to add to the wash water at stated intervals.

Blue Monday shares its color scheme these days with every other hue of the rainbow. Green, pink, yellow and polka-dot powders, granules, liquids, pellets and giant-size pills have all gotten into the washday act.

Their effectiveness in the mechanical washtub is apparently linked up in some way to the brevity and nonsense value of their name. Inclusion of such unusual letters as X and Z in the title also contribute to the efficacy of the product.

It takes time and patience to perform washday miracles in this scientific age. I've evolved a schene, however, to make sure the time spent standing wash watch isn't completely wasted.

I set up the ironing board near the machine and when I'm not involved with chemical analysis or the addition of a multitude of liquids and solids in proper sequence, I'm profitably employed: I use the time to press my husband's wash and wear shirts.

It All Depends

"Advertising is like fire, everything depends upon how it is used," Henry R. Richards told an Alpha Delta Sigma convention.

"For anyone, advertiser or consumer, to praise or condemn advertising as a whole, would be about as intelligent as to praise or condemn fire, music, art, or atomic energy. Advertising is a technique of presenting an affirmative case for a product or an idea.

"It may be used to promote snake oil or an antituberculosis campaign. Employed with good taste in spreading public acquaintance with meritorious articles, it has a real function to perform. Used to accent the shoddy and the worthless and thus undermine the consumer faith in our advancing Technology, it may prove a grave disservice."

COUNTABLE BLESSINGS

Many of us take for granted the blessings which are ours simply because we are Americans. Most of us have never known any other countries. Our parents knew nothing of life in other lands.

We have never lived where we had to be in mortal fear of the secret police, where our neighbor or close friend might be a government spy.

We have not had a government which censored the news and permitted newspapers to publish only what the ruling party desired. We have never lived in a land where propaganda had supplanted news as the principal content of newspapers.

We live in a country where it is lawful to hold peaceful assemblies and to worship God as we believe proper. We have never been subject to unreasonable search or seizure.

It is noteworthy that people who have experienced totalitarian rule mostly have a far greater appreciation of America than those of us who have always lived here. People who have at some time deprived of freedom, or who have lived where freedom did not exist, have a greater understanding of the blessings of America than the rest of us. They are not ashamed to be patriotic. They say, and mean it from the heart, "It's great to be an American!"

The rest of us can profit from their example. An answer to the often-repeated question, "What can I, one person, do?" is for every patriot to let his patriotism show. Freely voiced expressions of love for freedom will inspire others. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

--Soviet Bomb Threat--

Two full months before the story broke on the front pages, Jack Anderson dug out the secret intelligence report on the possible Soviet attack upon Red China's nuclear works. The column reported on June 12 that "Moscow may stage hit-and-run strikes at China's nuclear laboratories and armament centers in order to eliminate China as a nuclear threat." This was followed with specific details taken from the intelligence report. Two months later major newspaper confirmed the existence of such a report and the possibility of preventative Soviet strikes against China and a worldwide controversy was stirred by that possibility.

WASHINGTON--The army has suppressed the full facts about defects in the M-16 rifle, which has been jamming on our soldiers in combat.

This is revealed in confidential army documents, which dispute the official word put out to Congress, the press and the public. For two years, the Army has been saying that the fundamental defect was the soldier himself.

"There's nothing wrong with the M-16," an Army spokesman told this column just this week. "If a man doesn't keep his weapon clean, it won't fire."

Thiis is not quite the whole truth. In early 1967, reports began filtering out of Vietnam that the M-16 was displaying a fatal tendency to jam in combat. Congress herd military leaders and firearms experts testify that jamming was caused by battle stress, broken parts, faulty ammunition and plain dirt.

A subcommittee headed by Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., determined that the gunpowder being used in the 22-caliber cartridge was woefully deficient. He accused the Army of action that "borders on criminal negligence."

Still the Army insisted that the M-16 was the best individual weapon ever used by the U.S. soldier, if only he would keep it properly cleaned and oiled.

--Confidential Corrosion--

Confidential Army reports disclose, however, that the malfunctioning M-16 has shown a tendency, under certain conditions, to corrode--a process the army calls "exfoliation." This, in laymen's terms, means that the alumnium parts of the lightweight rifle tend to "rust" or "rot" away in tiny slivers, leaving depressions, cracks and gaping holes--frequently in the essential moving parts of the weapon.

One Army study of 200 rifles showed that "10 per cent of the rifles in the Northern part" of South Vietnam and "50 per cent of the rifles in the Southern part exhibited some degree of exfoliation." The confidential documents make quite clear that the Southern-based soldiers aren't merely more careless but that the M-16s are subject to greater "exfoliation" in the humid and salty environment of the Delta region.

Army experts not only have been aware of this trouble but have been trying to cure it for more than two years. The latest Army study of "exfoliation" was completed as recently as August 15. Yet one confidential document declares flatly that "no cure for the problem has been found."

--Unreliable Weapon--

The accumulation of small defects in the M-16 add up to one inescapable conclusion. Although the weapon was purchased to solve the special problems of close-in combat in Vietnam, it is basically not reliable for jungle warfare.

As a result of the rifle's erratic performance, U.S. combat soldiers in a firefight will throw down their M-16s and pick up any Ak-47 rifles that the ragtag Viet Cong abandon on the battlefield

Officially, the Army forbids GIs to carry the AK-47, but unofficially Army instructors teach the troops how to handle the weapon. For the sturdy, Soviet-made AK-47 will function even when rusted and caked witth jungle mud.

The basic rights to the M-16 are owned by colt industries which, for a $4.5 million consideration from the taxpayers, agreed to allow other companies to help produce the controversial rifle. Almost 1.5 million M-16s have been purchased, all susceptible to corrosion.

Since Colt engineers have failed to come up with a solution, the Army is now preparing to send "repair kits" to U.S. units in Vietnam. In the guerrilla-infested jungles all over Vietnam, the battle-beleaguered soldier will be expected to consult his amended manual, TM 9-1005-249-34, and to select one of three procedures for repairing his weapon.

--Jungle Repairs--

If "filler is needed to patch holes or cracks in either upper or lower receiver areas" of his M-16, for example, the soldier will select "procedure B":

"1. Sand exfoliated area with no. 80 grit emery paper until all traces of corrosion have been removed.

"2. Wash area with naptha, trichlorothylene, or methylene-chloride to remove all dirt, grease, and/or foreign material.

"3. Apply cement, epoxy, metal repair and hull smoothing specification MIL-C-24176 (ships), FSN 8030-670-8553, mixed in accordance with the manufacturer's directions to areas to be filled.

"4. Spread filler as smooth as possible into repaired area using a putty knife or similar tool.

"5. Place a sheet of polyethylene, previously cut to size, over the filled area and rub by hand or with a small roller to smoothen.

"6. Remove the polyethylene sheet after curing as recommended by the manufacturer.

"7. Spray with one (1) coat of lubricant, solid film, air drying, corrosion inhibiting, riapd 703, utilizing instructions supplied by the manufacturer. Allow to air dry for 12-16 hours before use. Adequate ventilation is recommended."

And while the soldier is so deeply involved in all these complexities of modern American technology, the rusty AK-47s will be firing away all around him.

--Golfers Rescued--

Military helicopters were urgently needed for rescue and relief flights following the recent floods in Central Virginia. Yet the Marine base at Quantico, Virginia, diverted one of its rescue helicopters to Ashland to pick up five professional golfers who were blocked by flooded roads from reaching a golf tournament on the base.

Expensive Loyalty:
Soviet Capitalist Investment Abroad Finance -- And Control -- World Communist Parties

Bucharest, Romania – Money may not buy everything. But it helps. It pays for political loyalty, especially if one is running a massive Communist Party in Western Europe.

The bigger the party, the bigger its deficits. The bigger the deficits, the greater the dependence on Moscow's intricate system of financing. To finance its overt operations, Moscow no longer dispatched bundles of cash by couriers or camouflaged businessmen. That's crude. Sort of amateurish James Bond. Instead, the Soviet Union now runs respectable central city banks, commercial sales agencies, film companies set up to shoot a single capital gains picture, brokerage firms and publishing houses.

The price of money is cheap -- if the party strategists and intellectual doesn't mind paying in self-respect. But no absolute loyalty, no money.

In this fashion, by freezing the flow of money from Soviet-controlled front corporations, Moscow kept in line the angered Western Communist Parties, especially those of France and Italy, when they revolted against the Soviet invasion of Czecechoslovakia last fall.

At first, the pressure came from the continent-hopping former secret police chief -- and now "trade union" chairman -- Aleksander Shelepin. He phoned Communist Party chiefs and Red labor federation leaders all across Europe.

But outside the bloc, they thumbed their ideological noses at him. Then Moscow dumped tons of "explanatory" literature into Western Europe and Italy -- aimed directly at the 290,000-member French Party and the 1.6 million-member Italian CP.

This failed. Then the Soviet embassies in Paris and Rome contacted the regional Paris "old guard" and even physically threatened the rebels (considered the left).

Then, when Western Communist-controlled unions and parties refused to buckle, the Soviet Union cut off the cash flow.

Bank credits to party commercial enterprises ended.

Sales agencies, through which merchants and industrialists must deal if they wish to sell to the Soviet Union and some of the satellites, suddenly ceased paying commissions. Thus the salesman, who are the conduits jbetween the sales houses and the Communist Parties, stopped drawing cash.

Much of this cash flows directly into the party treasuries in the lowlands, France and Italy.

Since virtually all those who do business with the Soviet block must work through these purchasing houses, the commission is enormous. When I was last in Paris, intelligence sources reported this "commission" to be five per cent.

That's the Surete Nationale estimate. And they know.

Just how much money this pours into the French Communist Party for example, it is difficult to estimate -- exactly. But there are guidelines. In 1967 French businessmen sold the Soviet Union $155 million worth of goods. Of this, some $44 million was paid for machinery of all types by the Soviets. The Moscow purchasing trusts spent another $17.2 million for textile yarn, fibers, etc.

Some $16 million went for French chemicals; $9.9 million for footwear; $2.9 million for food; $2.4 million for clothing; $2.1 million for synthetic rubber; $2 million for iron and steel products. And so it went. The commission totaled up to a fine capitalist sum. Fine indeed. This past May 26, Paris and Moscow signed a trade agreement permitting to France to sell $500 million worth of equipment annually.

In Italy, the Soviets purchased $125 million worth of goods through the special commission merchants who front for Europe's biggest Communist Party.

There, too, the Russians bought millions of dollars worth of machinery, chemicals, shoes, textiles, clothing, fruit and vegetables, etc.

But in Italy, the Soviets whipped up something new. They organized motion picture companies. They actually produced and put films into the open market. At least one of these ran in New York last month.

One picture was shot in Reggio Emilia in northern Italy. But the party ideologists were angered by the script, which just did not follow the line faithfully. So the producer shut up shop and left the star, cast and technical troupe standed. They complained to the Italian Communist Party itself. They were rebuffed. The star then announced he would join the Maoist-Leninist Party.

The pressure worked on all fronts. The tough French Communist Party, which for so long has had jurisdiction over the tiny American CP, grumbled, lost two orof its leading theoreticians, but did not break with Moscow.

The Italian Party huffed and puffed, counted its balance sheet credits, totaled its liabilities, talked about "friendly autonomy" in dealing with the Soviets. But it went along. It is top-heavy. Without Moscow's financial props, it would crumble.

Father's Last Wishes Not Good For Relations

Dear Ann Landers: After sitting home for 28 years (three dates the whole time) I decided to lose some weight, become a blond, change jobs and go where the action is. Here is my record for the past 16 months and I am ready to admit something is wrong with me. Can you tell me what?

I have managed to attract three married men whose wives don't understand them, two married men whose wives understand them TOO well, one Captain of Industry who drives a Mercedes Benz but never has enough money for gas, a musician who smokes crazy cigarets, a 52-year-old insurance adjuster who is impotent and a 23-year-old kid who calls me Mrs. Robinson and wants me to teach him a few things.

How can I get to meet a stable decent man and get out of this rat race? — Bella Donna

Dear Bella: The trouble with any rat race is that you are racing with rats. And the rats usually win.

Change jobs again and get involved in some extra-curricular activities that appeal to decent, stable people.

Dear Ann Landers: Dad died ten days before graduation. He had cancer and knew for several weeks that he wasn't going to make it. Dad made Mom promise that she would not go into mourning and that she would make us kids go on with our normal schedules after he died. His philosophy was that life is for the living and that when a loved one dies the family should waist no time sitting around crying.

My heart was heavy, but I went to the senior prom. My sister was invited to the Annapolis graduation and she went, also. Now my two aunts are mad at my kmother and won't speak to her. They say we are rotten kids and it is Mom's fault for allowing us to be disrespectful to Dad's memory. Mom told them Daddy wanted it that way but they say he didn't really — that he just said it.

Please express your opinion. Our whole family has respect for you. — Philadelphia

Dear Phil: Your mother deserves credit for having had the courage to follow your father's instructions. An orchid to her, a bouquet of roses to your wonderful dad — and a bunch of thistles to your aunts

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to "Hurt Feelings" was terrible. She was the woman who started to sit down in the dainty antique chair and the hostess took her arm and led her to the sofa — much to her embarrassment. "Hurt Feelings" said the hostess was a boor. You said the fat lady should have known better.

The following is from a book on antiques: "A chair too wobbly for use should be discarded or placed in a museum. To be of value, an antique chair must be sturdy and in good condition so guests can sit on it."

And now what have you to say for yourself, Miss Knowitall? — Pearlie

Dear P: That's one man's opinion. Now here's one woman's.

An obese woman should have more sense than to head for a dainty chair whether it is old or new. Such a chair was not constructed to hold her — either in the 18th century or now.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

McDonough Returns From Church Council

DALLAS — The Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of The First Assembly of God Church, has returned to Sikeston, from Dallas, where the largest General Council in the 55-year history of the Assemblies of God closed Tuesday, August 26. Peak attendance reached, 12,500.

Others attending the council from First Assembly of God were Mrs. T. A. McDonough and Patti Bollinger, Oran.

Election of the denomination's eight executive officers returned six incumbents and brought two new men into office. The Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman, Springfield, Mo., general superintendent since 1960, was relected for a four-year term by a 93% vote on the nominating ballot.

Two incumbent assistant general superintendents were returned to office. They are the Rev. T. E. Gannon and Charles W. H. Scott. Two others were elected, replacing the Rev. Howard S. Bush, who died in office in March, 1969, and the Rev. Bert Webb, who announced at the Council that he would not be available for re-election. Webb had served as an assistant general superintendent for 20 years, and expressed a desire to return to a regular preaching ministry without further administrative responsibilities.

The two newly-elected assistant general superintendents are the Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, president of North Central Bible College, Minnespolis, since 1961; and the Rev. Kermit Reneau, pastor, First Assembly of God, San Antonio, Texas. Both men had served as area executive presbyters of the Assemblies of God.

The Rev. J. Philip Hogan was re-elected for a two-year term as assistant general superintendent with the portfolio of executive director of the foreign missions department.

General Secretary Bartlett Peterson and general treasurer M. B. Netzel were also re-elected, both for a two-year term.

In a pre-council session, the 200-man general presbytery of the Assemblies of God named the Rev. Westley Hurst, as field secretary for the Far Eastern area of the Assemblies of God foreign missions ministry. The Rev. Hurst replaces the Rev. Maynard L. Ketcham, who has chosen to retire after many years in that position. Hurst began his foreign missions career in Tanzania, East Africa, and more department, with headquarters in Springfield, Mo.

Growth and necessity for increased service and outreach were predominant themes of the biennial reports given during the council sessions. Membership in the Assemblies of God in this country is up 8.6 percent, to 625,660. There are now 8,570 A/G churches in this country. Net gain in ordained and licensed ministers during the biennium was 521, bringing the total number to 17,026.

The church has 969 overseas missionaries in 85 countries. This reflects a net increase in foreign missions personnel of 213 since the 1967 report. The Assemblies of God has 323 home missionaries under appointment.

During an audio-visual presentation on Sunday afternoon, the church delegates heard a projection of plans for the second year of its five-year plan of advance. "Impact 700 — Go and Tell," is the theme for the year, during which the church will carry out concentrated witnessing efforts in seven metropolitan areas in the United States and seven overseas.

"Impact 70" areas in the United States will be Alburquerque, N. Mex.; Charlotte, N. C.; Omaha, Neb.; New York City; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco, Calif.; and Minnespolis - St. Paul, Minn.

Overseas areas will be Kinshasa, Congo; Salisburn, Rhodesia; Mexico City, Mexico; Teheran, Iran; Djakarta, Indosesia; Bahia Blanca, Argentina; and Noumea, New Caledonia.

In other business, delegates authorised a study of the over-all Assemblies of God headquarters structure, functions, and assignments, with a report to be submitted to the General Council scheduled for August 1971 in Philadelphia.

The Gospel Visitor

By: REEDUS M. BAUGHER

We continue, with those who have difficulties, in dealing with the lost. There are many difficulties which, to these, seems insurmountable. Although Satan never ceases his efforts, he will continue to tempt us, we have shown from God's word how these difficulties can be overcome.

But one says, "To be a Christian will hurt my business," or "I can't Remember that Jesus said, "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" (Mark 8:36-37) Especially for the benefit of these Jesus told the parable of the rich farmer. (Lk. 12:16-21) Nothing said, about it being wrong simply because he had an abundance. But, it was his attitude toward this "bumper crop" that Jesus condemned. He could have used his riches for good, but instead, he planned for his own ease. And failed to recognize the source of his abundance. His thoughts were, "What shall I do," "I have," "My fruits," "this will I do," "I will . . . " "there will I . . . " "All my fruits and my goods," and "I will say to my soul . . " Ah! Riches! how secure thou art. "But God said unto him, thou fool . . . (vs. 20) This man forgot the Giver, and everyone else but himself. But in reality he had forgotten himself. For riches are powerless to secure the soul. And what's life? A vapor said James. (4:14)

Let us not forget what Christ gave up."For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich." (2 Cor. 8:9) It would help also to remember the example of the apostle Paul. "But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ." (Phil. 3:7)

Says another, "The Christian life is too hard." But the Bible says, "Good understanding giveth favor: but the way of the transgressor is hard." (Prov. 13:15) Jesus invites: "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest . . . For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." (Matt. 11:28-30) "For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous." (1 Jno. 5:3) But, "I will lose my friends." If so, consider the friends you will gain. (1 Jno. 1:3) Finally one might say, "It is too late." "The Lord is not slack concerning his promises, as some men count slackness; but is long suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentence." (2 Pet. 3:9) "Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation." (2 Cor. 6:2)

Handicap Shoot Begins Saturday

CHARLESTON — Firing will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in eliminations of a two day handicap skeet and trap shoot with the top five performers qualifying for participation in a regional match, which will also be sponsored by the Mississippi County Gun Club of Charleston. Finals will be held Sunday.

The trap and skeet grounds are located three miles west of Charleston, just off Highway 61, behind the Odd Fellows cemetery.

The five winner will be presented a Mark II, Model 1400 Winchester- Western automatic shotguns, Glen Ault, Jr., club president said.

In the Region Six shootoff the five highest performers will compete against top Mid-western state shooters. Immediate daily reports will go direct to Winchester - Western's headquarters at New Haven, Conn., by direct telephone wire.

The five highest shooters from one club, in the Region 6 meet, will form a team that will be given an all- expense trip to Grand Bahamas, with $1,000 being allowed each team member for expenses.

The Regional meet will by held in October, with the exact date to be announced later, Ault said.

Professional and expert shooters are barred from the competition. Those persons who competed in the qualifying rounds two weeks ago are eligible.

Namath Sounds off

Namath said Thursday night he might not play in the New York Jets interleague game with the Dallas Cowboys because of an injured left leg.

"I hurt my leg against Minnesota last week and I haven't practiced all week," the bewhiskered Super Bowl hero said after he blew into Dallas. "I might not play at all."

The flamboyant quarterback said he'll decide on Saturday night if he'll play.

"We've got to go for next week," he said. "That's when the season starts against Buffalo—not Dallas."

While Dallas Coach Tom Landry praised Namath's speed, accuracy and timing with the Jets' secondary, Namath said he wasn't all that impressed with the Cowboys front four, its famed Doomsday Defense.

"The Cowboys' front four doesn't even compare with Minnesota," Namath said. "But Bob Lilly, defensive ackle, is the exception. He's fabulous."

The Jets, 3-2, edged the Vikings 24-21 last weekend. Nanath completed 13 of 24 passes for 219 yards and two touchdowns. The Cowboys, 3-1, nipped the Houston Oilers 14-11.

While Dallas fans wait for wod on Namath, a sellout crowd of 65,000 in Los Angeles might be faced with the temptation of divided allegience when O.J. Simpson returns to the scene of his college exploits.

Will they root for the Rams Saturday night? Or will the sight of Simpson, a hometown boy who signed with Buffalo after a dazzling career with Southern Cal, prompt cheers for the other team?

The Heisman Trophy-winning halfback, he most prized rookie in pro football history, started running with the Bills' first unit Wednesday, and although Coach John Rauch hasn't said he was goint to start for the Rams, Simpson said there's a chance he might.

Simpson has already carried 12 times for 52 yards in games with the Lions, Colts and Bears.

In other games Saturday, the New York Giants, 0-3, are at Minnesota, 3-1; Pitsburgh, 1-2 is at Green Bay, 2-2; Houston, 2-2, is at New Orleans, 2-2; Atlanta, 2-2, at Kansas City, 5-0; Cleveland, 2-1-1, at Washington, 2-2; Detroit, 3-1, meets Philadelphia, 2-1, at Raleigh, N.C.; Boston, 2-2, travels to Miami, 0-5; and Cincinnati, 2-2, hosts Denver, 1-3.

The Bills, 1-4, are making their first appearance in Los Angeles since their 1960 victory over the Chargers in the first year of the American Football League. Jack Kemp, who quarterbacked the Chargers in that game, missed the game with the Bears last week because of a sore elbow, but is expected to be ready for the Rams.

The Rams' 24-21 decision over San Diego snapped a two-game losing streak to Cleveland and Kansas City after victory over Dallas. Tight end Bill Truaz and offensive tackle Bob Brown are questionable starters for Los Angeles because of injuries.

The Giants, looking for their first preseason victory, will offer the Vikings a bolstered running game, with the return of Tucker Frederickson and Joe Morrison. Frederickson gained 47 yards on 11 carries and Morrison waswas three for 33 in last week's 24-17 loss to jphiladelphia.

The Vikings registered their first loss to the Jets after beating Miami, Denver and St. Louis. Gary Cuozzo will start at quarterback although Joe Kapp is expected to see some action after missing two games because of an injured knee.

The Pittsburgh-Green Bay game will match the quarterbacking of Steelers' rookie Terry Hanratty and the Packers' Bart Starr. Hanratty completed four of seven passes for 88 yards in Pittsburgh's loss to Cincinnati and Starr hit on 12 of 22 passes to wipe out a 0-14 deficit in Green Bay's victory over Cleveland.

BATTING—Cesar Tovar, Twins, hit a grand slam home run in the 10th inning to give Minnesota a 10-5 victory over Oakland.

Thursday's Fights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PORTLAND, Maine - Irish Jimmy McDermott, 170, Holyoke, Mass., knocked out Nat Edwards, 175, New York, 3.

LOS ANGELES — Ruben Novarro, 133, Los Angeles, outpointed Ron Collado, 133, Dominican Republic, 10.

Davis' Streak Ended; LA Falls to Fourth

The pitch from Gary Ross of the San Diego Padres came in high and tight. Willie Davis swung and missed it for a third strike on a 1-2 couht.

Thus came to an end Thursday night the longest consecutive game hitting streak in the major leagues in a quarter of a century.

The center fielder for the Los Angeles Dodgers had hit safely in 31 consecutive games and was within hailing distance of the modern National League record of 37 set by Tommy Holmes of the old Boston Braves in 1945.

Not only did the Padres stop Davis, but they blanked the Dodgers 3-0 dropping them to third place behind San Francisco and Cicinnati in the NL West mad scramble. It was the only NL game scheduled.

Minnesota beat Oakland 10-5 in 10 innings, Baltimore shaded Detroit 5-4, California shut out the Chicago White Sox 1-0 and Kansas City defeated Seattle 5-3 in the four American League games scheduled.

"Well, at least it took two of them to get me," said a disappointed Davis.

He referred to Dick Kelley and Ross, the two Padres pitchers. Kelley started, but had to leave in the third inning because of a sore shoulder. Ross came in and completed a fourhit shutout. He and Kelley each yielded two hits.

This is what happened to Davis:

Third inning—Against Ross, came up with two on and again grounded out to Arcia.

Fifth inning—against Ross, came up again with two on and grounded to first baseman Nate Colbert, who threw to Ross, covering first, for the putout.

Eight inning—against Ross, came up with Manny Mota on first and struck out.

Al Ferrera, a former Dodger, drove in all three runs for the Padres. He doubled home Roberto Pena and Ollie Brown in the third and hit a home run in the sixth.

Meantime, the San Francisco Giants who are rolling along with 12 victories in 14 games, hope they can shake off their September jinx when they open an eight-game tough road trip at Houston tonight.

This is the month in which the Giants have faded and finished second four straight years. This happened even when they had a 14-game winning streak in September, 1965, and in September, 1966, when they won eight of nine games in one span, including six in a row.

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State's Cyclones held two-hour sessions Monday in preparation for the Sept. 20 opener at Syracuse. They were full scale contact workouts. Ijured regulars Wayne Beske and Tom Hilden returned to workouts but tight end Ton Lorenz is still slowed by a strained back muscle.

Hart's Finger Holds Roseborough Future with Big Red

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Whether the St. Louis football Cardinals are a two- quarterback team or a three- quarterback team depends on the index finger of Jim Hart's throwing hand.

The third quarterback, if there is one, likely will be Ed Roseborough, a rookie out of Arizona State. He had some good moments in the Cardinals' loss to the Kansas City Chiefs last week, but Coach Charley Winner was pretty reserved about his praise for Roseborough.

"You can't deny that he produced," Winner said. "He did a pretty good job although he did throw that touchdown pass to Gilliam up for grabs."

Winner was talking about a 49-yard scoring pass to John Gilliam, in the fourth quarter. Roseborough admittedly threw the pass up and hoped Gilliam would run under it. Gilliam did, but National Football League quarterbacks, at least the good ones, don't live on hope.

And then there's the fact that Cardinals already have put quarterback Dave Olivo on the reserve list. With one quarterback on the list already, there doesn't appear to be any room for Roseborough. And if Hart heals quickly enough, Winner indicated, there won't be any room for Roseborough on the Big Red squad.

The big question is will Hart heal quickly enough.

"I don't know," Winner said. "He threw a couple of passes in practice and then his arm began bothering him.

SEMO State College Gridders To Hold Scrimmage Tonight

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Like most football coaches, Tom Thrower of Southeast Missouri State College claims his team has "certain weaknesses." But, from all indications to date, the offensive line is not one of them.

Thrower says, with obvious confidence, "We could have a really good offensive line. We just have average size, but we are real quick."

In act, the Indian mentor gives the impression that team speed is going to be a major asset for the Indians this fall. For, in addition to a nimble line, one of the players now in the running for the spot vacated by Little All-American Walt Smallwood, is Al Holmes, a 160-pound junior from St. Louis.

Mainstays in the offensive line which Thrower is so high on at the moment includes Ron Helms, a 190- pound junior from St. Louis at center; Ken Henderson, a 211- pound senior from Normandy at guard; Steve Johnson, a 230- pound junior from Granite City, Ill., at tackle; and Ken Joggerst, a 214- pound senior from Ste. Genevieve at tight end.

Thrower is also pleased with the early appearance of two returning offensive backs, quarterback Greg Schroeder, a 185- pound senior from St. Louis, and fullback Bruce Hoffman, a 200- pound senior from Park Forest, Ill. "They'll be ready," he assures quietly.

The biggest weakness which concerns Thrower is the lack of an experienced secondary. John Bean, a 160- pound sophomore from St. Louis, is the only returning defensive back with any experience.

One of the players being seriously looked at for a secondary post is Bruce Nall, a 190- pound senior from Poplar Bluff who, until this season, has been used primarily as a kicking specialist.

Othes being given a try-out include Bob Rudd, a 167- pound transfer student from Des Moines, Iowa, and Jim Powell, a 168- pound freshman from Webster Groves.

Thrower put the squad, which has dwindled to 76 from the 85 who reported originally, through its first scrimmage Tuesday night. He plans a game- like scrimmage on Friday evening (Sept. 5) to wrap up the first week of workouts with the pads.

"Right now the boys are pretty sore and some are bruised up,"commented the Indian coach. "But on the whole they reported in good shape and we're just about where we thought we would be at this point. We're hitting pretty good. We'll have a more solid impression of the players after the Friday scrimmage which we plan to film."

Two- a- day workouts will continue for the Indians through next Tuesday (Sept. 9).

Hopkins Promoted To Sergeant

BLOOMFIELD- Highway Patrol Cpl. Vernon Hopkins has been promoted to sergeant and has assumed new duties in charge of the patrol's Fredericktown zone.

Hopkins, a trooper since 1955, replaces Sgt. Charles Whitehead at Fredericktown. Whitehead recently was named to attend the Northwestern Traffic Institute for a nine-month administrative course and will be assigned to the Highway Patrol's General Headquarters in Jefferson City, according to Capt. E. F. Dampf, Troop E. Commander.

Hopkins, age 37, is a native of Bloomfield and has been assigned to this area of the Patrol since 1960. He formerly was stationed in the Hayti area.

No Motive Unearthed In Shooting

CHARLESTON - Lyman Estes, Charleston, charged in the Sunday shooting of three persons, remained silent and Mississippi County authorities are still in the dark in regard to the motive in the triple shooting.

Two of those shot, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jackson, are in fair condition in Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. The third, Auby Griffin, has been transferred to a Memphis, Tenn., hospital and is listed in serious condition.

The Sheriff's Department in Charleston said the incident took place late Sunday afternoon. The Jacksons were shot as they talked with Mrs. Beatrice Parafzva at her home and Griffin was shot through the screen door of his home as he sat in the house.

Estes was captured by the highway patrol and Cape County sheriff's deputies near Burfordville later Sunday night. Authorities said this morning he has remained silent since his capture. Sheriff W. J. Simmons said today three charges of assault with intent to kill have been placed against Estes.

School Offers to Renew Controlled Smoking Plan

HIGHLANDS, N.J. (AP) — Henry Hudson Regional School students will be offered another year of controlled smoking on the premises.

"It worked so well last year," said Harold Schaible, the high school superintendent, "that I'm going to offer it to the new student council."

An experiment last year permitted students in grades 9 through 12, who are 16 years of age or over, to smoke during their lunch hour in a small patio area outside the school building.

Students must have the written permission of their parents to obtain a smoking permit. Last year, 78 students out of 735 had the privilege.

Schaible said the plan cut unauthorized smoking "by almost 100 per cent."

Any student caught smoking illegally can be suspended for five days for a first offense and ten for a second. He can be expelled altogether by the school board for a further offense.

Senath Band Director Takes Own Life

SENATH - Senath-Hornserville band director, Homer Ray Ivy, 34, of Senath, was found dead in his apartment after committing suicide Friday or Saturday.

The young teacher - who had taught in the school system during the 1968-69 school year - took his life approximately 24 hours after handing in his resignation to the Senath - Hornersville school board.

Ivy's body was discovered at 10:30 a.m. Saturday by Dunklin County Deputies Radford Raines and Juston Huggins. Senath - Hornersville Principal Wayne Woods, Superintendent Jack Lincoln and Senath Chief of Police Willard Hampton. Deputy Raines said Ivy failed to keep a 9 a.m. appointment with Woods that morning.

Raines stated that Ivy had disconnected the gas wall heater in his apartment and had attached a vacuum cleaver hose to the heater, which led to a plastic mask over Ivy's face. Investigating officers added that Ivy had covered himself with a blanket and a comforter, and was lying in the middle of the living room when his body was discovered. Officers said the apartment was completely filled with gas. No estimate was given on exactly how long the school teacher had been dead.

Jack Lincoln, superintendent of the Senath - Hornersville schools, said that Ivy was a talented band director and would be missed by the community and the students.

Services for Ivy were held at Laurel, Miss., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ivy live. Attending the funeral was a group of teachers who worked with Ivy.

Two Men Hurt in Collision

MOREHOUSE -Two young Oklahoma men, the names of whom were unavailable this morning, were seriously injured in a car- truck collision at 10 a.m. at the intersection of route E and Highway 60 near the Running Horse Cafe.

The injured, both traveling in the auto, were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Raymond Lawerence, city marshal, said the passenger in the auto had a broken right leg. The driver, he said, had serious cuts.

The GMC truck was driven by William McClain, Jonesboro, Ark., who was not seriously injured. Marshal Lawrence said both vehicles were traveling east. McClain apparently was attempting to make a left turn toward Morehouse and the car was attempting to pass. The truck was damaged in the front.

The car was damaged on one side.

Highway Patrolman Bernie Rapert, Charleston, investigated.

What We Think About It

By Lt. Colonel Norman R. May of Warwick, Bermuda

SUMMARY

I have stated and defined what, to me, are the four fundamental reasons for the uncertainties and uneasiness felt today by right-thinking men in the free world.

Reasons one and two - knowledge and production - open to us a new world never before known or experienced, a world of limitless, almost frightening possibilities which, if properly developed, could lead to Utopia - to Professor Wald's "one world, a world for all men".

But we are hamstrung by reasons three - language and political philosophy, and reason four - Russia. To me, these are so intertwined and interrelated that it would seem nothing short of a full confrontation, an all out war, would, at this late date, stop Russia from achieving its goal of world domination. And of course the Russians know, and this is their strong hand or ace-in-the-hole, that we in the West realize that, if it came to an all-out war, there would be no pieces left for anyone to pick up.

But, if we have the courage, the sagacity, the determination and the leadership, we may yet achieve, by peaceful means, the objective as stated by George Orwell:

"to preserve mankind's ethical values, - honour, mercy, justice and respect for others".

I suggest -

(a) that somehow, by education, propoganda, publicity campaigns, through the news media and by public demand, we must clarify our thinking and our vocabularies to restore the correct meanings to our words.

We must expose Communism as an unrealistic and unobtainable myth and, in so doing, cure or cleanse our news media, our teaching professions, our politicians and our students of their leftist, fifth-column thinking and activities.

We must insist that Governments, political parties and activist groups be described and be referred to and be named as they really are. Let us stop using this nasty and misleading word "communist". Let us not accept such names as

"the Democratic Peoples Republic of North Korea"

"the Democratic Republic of Poland"

"Students for a Democratic Society" etc. etc.

let us refer to them instead as:

"the Police State of North Korea"

"the Police State of Poland"

"Students for an Anarchist Society" etc. etc.

I do not suggest a witch-hunt as per the late Senator McArthy, but if right thinking men would speak up and refute and refuse subversive language, the fundamental issues we face would be clarified in the public mind.

(b) Rather than a full confrontation or all-out war with Russia, let us, the nations of the free world, deflate the Russian power image and influence through, and by strengthening, the United Nations.

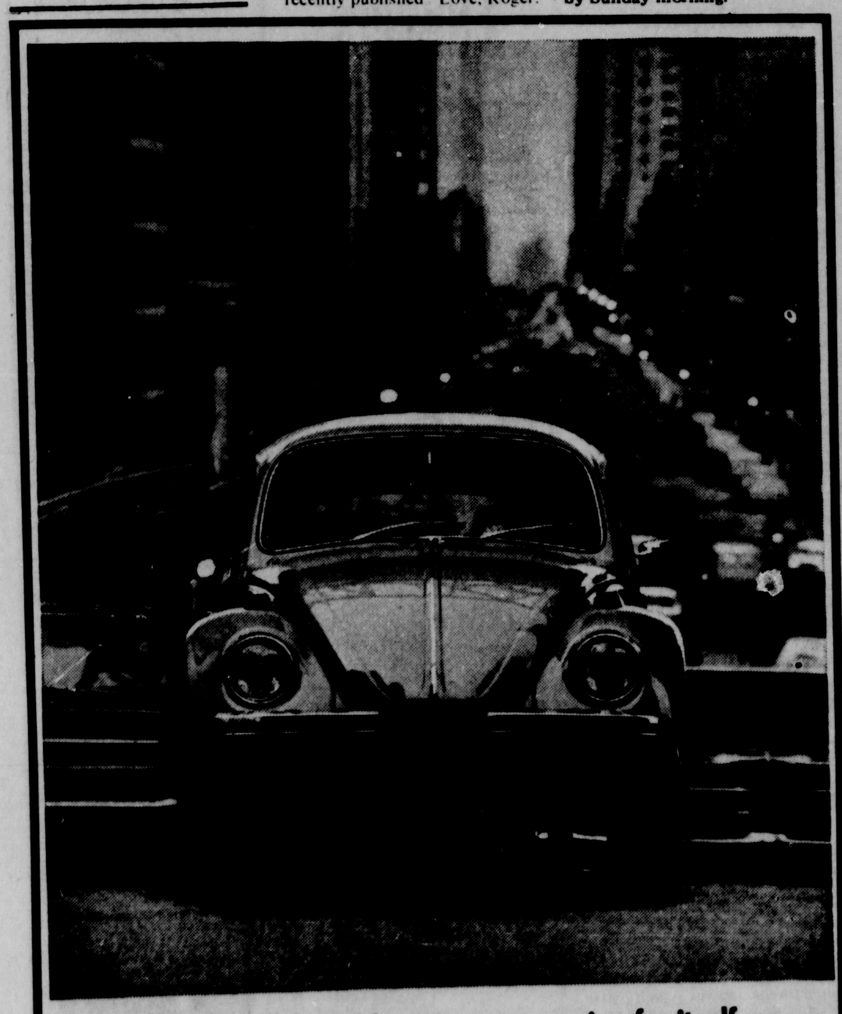
Normandy School Tax Increase Passes on Seventh Attempt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The suburban Normandy school district, rebuffed six times in efforts to win approval of a 91-cent school tax increase, was successful at the polls Wednesday.

District residents voted 9,003-3,350 on a proposal to raise the school levy to $5.18 per $100 assessed valuation for two years. A two-thirds majority was required.

School officials immediately announced schools would open Monday. No opening date had been set pending the outcome of the tax referendum.

The Wellston School District, also a six-time loser at the polls, will try again Monday for a 98 cent increase in its operating levy.



After you've paid for it, it starts paying for itself.

We didn't want our bug to be a hog.
That's why we made it go about 27 miles to a gallon of gas.
And why we persuaded it to take pints of oil instead of quarts.
And why we gave it an air-cooled engine. (Air is free. Antifreeze isn't.)
And why we put the engine in the back so you get more push from the rear wheels. (And less pull from tow trucks.)
And that's why at trade-in time if things are still the same as they have been, you can count on getting back more of your initial investment of $1,895 than practically every other car owner gets of theirs.
Which is only right.
After all, why shouldn't the car that's been saving you money while you own it do the same when you sell it?

Jack Anderson Special

Editors:

Drew Pearson's death was a shock to countless people, and it is a saddening loss to those of us who knew him as a friend and who worked with him.

Drew Pearson died knowing that his crusade for honesty in high places would not die with him. He had planned for Jack Anderson to carry on the Washington Merry-Go-Round.

Anderson will carry on and I am confident he will make the Merry-Go-Round an even more powerful scourge of the dishonest and those who fail in their sworn responsibilities to the public and the nation.

While Jack Anderson has been associated with Drew Pearson for 22 years, he is, as you know, an investigative reporter--call him Muckraker if you will--in his own right.It was Anderson who launched the first investigation of Sen. Joe McCarthy. He broke the first stories about Sherman Adam's activities on behalf of Bernard Goldfine; his investigation led to the ouster of Richard Mack of the Federal Communications Commission; he broke the story of how the TFX plane contract was shifted from Boeing to General dynamics; he revealed the facts that led to the censure of Senator Thomas Dodd; he dug up evidence that led to Congressional discipline of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell and, more recently, he has disclosed grave discrepancies in Senator Ted Kennedy's version of the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

These facts assure us all, I believe, that the Merry-Go-Round willl continue with more vigor than ever; that Jack Anderson does not fear the good fight and that he will build up as fine a list of enemies as did Drew Pearson.

A profile of Jack Anderson was sent you yesterday. Today we are shipping a photo and one-and-half-column mats of Anderson.

Sincerely,
John Osenenko.

A personal note to Editors:

Not along ago, a derogatory remark by an editor came to our attention. The editor clearly had been misinformed about an incident, so I asked the late Drew Pearson what we should do to straighten him out.

"Just write good columns," Drew replied laconically.

I know this would be Drew's advice to me now. He would urge me to forget today's sorrow and concentrate on tomorrow's column. He would remind me that we had never produced an expose by waiting around for the offenders to call a press conference to confess their wrongdoing.

Drew believed passionately that the Democratic machinery should never be permitted to run so smoothly and so silently that there weren't a few of us to grate against the massive wheels of big government. He made the Washington Merry-Go-Round an institution that opposed the venal and exposed the corrupt. He sought to make it a voice for the voiceless, a defender of the downtrodden.

Every day, we receive 200 to 300 letters, most of them from the disadvantaged, the disaffected and the disillusioned, who have lost faith in the regular channels of government. Drew Pearson felt it was important for the health of the nation that these people have a champion.

For 22 years--10 as a partner--I have worked with Drew to achieve these goals. The nation, I sincerely believe, will be worse off without him. But I will do my best to continue this work.

Great Dane Receives Gold Hero's Medal

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A great Dane named Top was honored as a hero Thursday night at a dinner.

Top, credited with saving the lives of two children within eight weeks, received a gold medal, a gold-plated lead and collar, gold plaque, custommade blanket and a year's supply of dog food. His owners, Miss Norma Clark and Alan Patzwaldt, an actor from Los Angeles, will receive a $1,000 savings bond.

Last spring, an 11-year-old girl named Margo Tacot, a neighbor of Patzwaldt, took the great Dane for a walk. She started to cross a street, not noticing a truck bearing down on her. Top is credited with pushing the girl backward to safety. He was struck by the truck, however, and suffered a fractured leg and broken ribs.

A week after the cast was removed from his leg, Top was allowed out in the yard of the apartment house where Patzwaldt lives.

Moments later, Patzwaldt said, Top was back at the doorway, barking furiously and dripping wet. When Patzwaldt opened the door, Top bounded to a swimming pool in the yard.

Patzwaldt said he found a 2-year-old boy at the bottom of the pool, dived in and brought the boy up. The actor applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The boy was taken to a hospital and recovered.

Top's actions led to his selection as dog hero of the year in a promotion by a dog food manufacturer, Ken-L Ration, which sponsored the dinner.

State Asked To Mediate Pay Dispute

MALDEN — Negotiations between the Malden Board of Public Works and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have reached a stalemate and the state has been asked to step in as a mediator.

Employees of the Board of Public Works voted 18-4 last November to have the I.B.E.W. represent them in collective bargaining with the City of Malden. They are seeking pay increases, more fringe benefits and better working conditions.

Contract negotiations between the union representative, Don Keith, and the Board of Public Works have been underway for several months, but apparently have reached an impasse.

One of the main points of contention has been the inclusion of supervisory personnel within the union. Supervisors and office personnel were permitted to be included in the vote last fall and now the City of Malden is seeking to have them excluded.

A date for the mediation hearing has not been announced.

Brenda Palmer In Talent Show

Historian's Charles Of Sweden

CHARLES XII OF SWEDEN. By R. M. Hatton. Weybright and Talley. $15.

The hardest challenge for a historian is trying to restore to life a dimming figure, with accuracy, understanding and appeal.

By that test, R. M. Hatton succeeds brilliantly. To most readers, Charles XII is a misty personality at best. Few nonprofessionals today can recall with what awe he once was regarded, a sort of superman who flashed across the north European horizon in the early 18th century when Sweden imprudently had managed to become a major power; dashed off furiously to defend the territories which were like hostages amid rising East European nations; then, after brilliant victories, saw his own and Sweden's glory tarnished in the unconquerable stretches of Russia.

An absolute monarch, Charles was no ordinary tyrant. He had definite intellectual and artistic interests, like some other members of the Vasa dynasty before him; for instance, Gustavus Adolphus and Queen Christina, who was Charles' godmother.

One cannot help admiring his military genius, his over-all magnanimity, and the bravery that made him expose himself excessively on the battlefield. And there is pathos at the last watching him show himself, to help the troops' morale, above a shallow trench on the rocky, frozen Norwegian front. For his pains he received a bullet that crashed through his skull from temple to temple, symbolizing the beginning of the end of Sweden's big-power status.

Prof. Hatton, who teaches international history at the University of London, has mastered the details of Charles and his time and described them in simple, forceful prose. And she has succeeded in a task that must have been difficult: reconstructing the details of old battles with understanding and clarity.

It is good to have such a restoration of Charles' image. For a long time it would have been difficult to prove even old Dr. Samuel Johnson's claim for the tragic young king's final purpose for mankind: "To point a moral, or adorn a tale." The moral he would point today would be the great danger of overextended commitments in a hostile world.

Community Concert Series-Artists from Near and Far

BY BARBARA LACY

If the Sikeston Commmnunity Concert series needed a slogan; (it doesn't for it lives on the excellent record of it's past performences).

If the series needed a slogan, this years schedule would provide an easy one: "Artists from Near and Far."

From the United States will come to the Don Shirley trio, a much acclaimed music group who play jazz with as much easy delight as they play folk or classical music.

"We are thrilled to have Mimi perform for us," Mrs. Keith Collins, said. "This will really be a special season."

Memberships will go on sale, during the last two weeks of September under the direction of Mrs. Howard Johnson. Once again, area residents and area music lovers are reminded that only season ticket holders will be able to attend the concerts.

Opening the season, Oct. 27, will be the trio.

Since 1945 Shirley has delighted United States audiences with piano playing, compositions and recordings. A side-light of Shirley's career few music lovers may be aware of is his doctor of philosophy degree in psychology and his teaching and research in the field of music and psychology.

Shirley's musical popularity was never so well shown as on March 22, 1968, when 2,784 fans asked for five encores after his debut at Carnegie in New York City.

On his first tour in 1962-63, his trio visited 50 cities, all of which were sold out in advance. Since then he has visited 70 to 90 cities each season. He also performs as soloist with an increasing number of symphonies each year.

Shirley is a "free" artist whose musical ability has won him admirers as diverse as classicist Igor Stravinsky to the king of American music, Duke Ellington.

Whether he plays classical, folk or modern music, it emerges as an exciting musical invention. A combination of imagination and musicianship is Shirley's trademark.

Some of his fame comes from his career as a recording artist. Some 20 albums made earlier are now collector's items. Recent albums still available are "Water Boy", "Don Shirley in Concert" recorded live at Carnegie Hall, and "The Gospel According to Don Shirley".

Shirley was born in Kingston, Jamaica. His mother, was his first teacher and his progress so fast that at the age of nine he was invited to study at the Leningrad Conservatory of Music.

As a composer Shirley has written four organ symphonies, numerous pieces for piano, two string quartets and a piano concerto.

His career as a performer and composer came to a sudden halt when he deserted music and went into psychology with serious intent. He earned a in psychology with Phi Beta Kappa honors and then taught in leading colleges and universities of the United States and the Caribbean.

It was while Shirley was at the University of Chicago a widely publicized series of 'thrill killings took place in New York's Central Park. Because of an uniformed attempt to link much of the delinquency with the stimulus of certain types of music. Shirley was awarded a grant to study the alleged music-crime relationship.

His approach to his research was an unusual one. He first devised a number of musical arrangements offering various combinations of keys, chords progressions and varying dynamics. He performed these in a small Chicago club and with some students, studied scientifically, the reactions and responses of the audiences. The public, unaware it was the subject of an experiment, flocked to the exciting new sounds--"mellow dynamite" as one writer called them.

He is more than well rounded. His knowledge resembles that of the reniassance man. He has studied liturgical arts at Washington's Catholic University. His work on Ambrosian and Gregorian chants qualifies him as one of the few experts in the field.

He has been a world traveler. He knows most of the middle eastern languages and has read the Koran in its original Arabic. He has designed sets for television shows and has done serious painting.

He also puts on a good show.

The second in the concert series will be the Reyes/Soler Ballet Espanol De Madrid, March 10.

Ramon de Los Reyes grew up among the gypsies and begin dancing when he was nine years old. He had his first lesson at age 17. After compulsory military service he formed his own trio which opened at the Hilton Hotel in Madrid.

They toured Spain and England as well as some of the United States.

After several other tours with other groups, he felt ready to form a special ballet group---the Reyes/Soler Ballet Espanol de Madrid.

His partner, Lola Soler, is a striking, exotic beauty who displays the characteristics of an aristocratic father and a beautiful gypsy mother. She was sent to England to study classical ballet, which she did for many years but the call of the gypsy within her was overwhelming.

She returned to Spain and to the tantalizing Flamenco dances.

Their program is not limited to any particular epoch or region of Spain but covers all the most colorful phases of Spanish dance from Spain and Latin America. They do the fiery Flamenco of Andalucia and the charming shepherd dances of the Basque country. In costumes spectacularly beautiful and authentic.

Probably the most looked forward to, the Mimi Allen Concert will be April 14.

Mimi Allen, who wanted to be a harpist when other little girls were thinking of movie careers, has successfully combined a professional life with the role of housewife and mother.

Sikestonites are accustomed to seeing her name in the Daily Standard as she prepares for a tour, cuts a record or makes a television special.

Some probably remember her mother as a fine pianist and Mimi giving her first piano radio concert when she was five.

In order to find a harp teacher she went to Stephens College, at that time a high school and a junior college. Mimi swept through the four-year curriculum in three years, picking up two scholarships for further study on the way.

At 18 she was in New York City studying piano and harp privately and picking up extra courses at the Julliard School of Music.

At 20, she started her concert career playing with the New York symphony, touring, teaching.

But people who know Mimi know that she has not neglected other interests to play the harp. After marrying Kenneth Smitten, who isn't a musician but an agricultural engineer from San Francisco, the Smittens moved to Sikeston.

Mimi began freelancing, picking and choosing concerts to give, tours to make. She has toured the 48 continental states, Mexico, pre-Castro Cuba, Canada and Italy, giving concerts, teaching, writing and performing scores for movies. She has immersed herself in every fact of the harp.

But it's not often she performs in Sikeston.

SIKESTON'S OWN MINI ALLEN will conclude the Community Concert series with harp music on April 14.

DAN SHIRLEY at the piano. His trio will appear Oct. 27, first in the Community Concert series.

THE REYES/SOLER Ballet Espanol de Madrid dance company from Spain will appear in Sikeston March 10.

PREACHER DIES

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — An African preacher collapsed and died in his pulpit with the words "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh" on his lips.

A member of the Apostolic Faith Church at Hammanskraal near here said guest preacher William Kau Mosue, 39, was delivering a sermon when he "suddenly became pale and his tone changed. He shouted at the top of his voice 'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh' and dropped dead with the Bible still in his hand. To the congregation, it was a token of his good deeds and words that the Lord took him away then."

ARMED FORCES

CLARKTON--Pfc. Charles Jones of Clarkton was awarded the silver star for gallantry in action while serving as a medic with Company D, 1st Battalion, 5th Infantry, in the Republic of Vietnam.

Official Army records show that on Nov. 29, 1968, while on a road clearing operation, a command detonated claymore mine wounded several men. Enemy small arms fire ensued but Private Jones, with complete disregard for his own safety, moved to the wounded men. As the wounded men were being evacuated by helicopter, a booby trap was detonated, wounding every man near the dust off. Private Jones, at first stunned, moved to the aid of the wounded personnel. His valorous actions contributed immeasurably to the saving of lives. Pvt Jones' personal bravery, aggressiveness, and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division and the United States Army.

Jones underwent basic training at Fort Campbell, Ky., and medical training at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. He left for Vietnam in August, 1968 and returned to the States Aug. 21 of this year after a year's tour of duty there. SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Melvin R. Laird thanks Sp6 Robert L. George for a colorful painting of Army soldiers crossing a stream in the Republic of Vietnam. Specialist George loaned the painting from his personal collection when he learned that Secretary Laird wanted the work of an Army artist for his Pentagon office. Inspired by a recent tour in the Republic of Vietnam, Specialist George has painted several Army combat scenes in his spare time. Other paintings by Specialist George hang in the office of the commanding officer of the U.S. Army Command Information Unit in Washington, D.C., where he is assigned as an illustrator.

Managing Editors

Mailings started this week on 'Footprints On The Moon," AP's epic story of man's first landing on the moon -- a feat that will rank throughout history along with the greatest of explorations.

By now, most of you have seen an advance copy of the book. We don't have to say much more about it because the quality and beauty of this memorable edition speak loudly enough.

One publisher, Arthur P. Irving of the Glens Falls, N.Y., Post, wrote of "Footprints On The Moon":

"It is a well written and beautifully illustrated book. Please permit me to extend to you and your associates who participated in this work my congratulations on their splendid accomplishment."

"The book review for Stars & Stripes said that "Footprints On The Moon" is a "fine and aluable book that should never become rare. It belongs on the shelf of all those who lived the long, anxious years of the Space Race -- as a heritage to be read by those who did not."

Public interest in the book -- judging by the numbers of your readers who continue to send in their order - remains at a high peak. As of this writing, nearly 200,000 copies of "Footprints On The Moon' had been spoken for.

Promotion on your pages remains the successful key to this beautiful book, especially now with interest still at a peak.

Sincerely,
Dan Perkes

Food for Dogs Must Be Clearly Labeled

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A group of enterprising dog food manufacturers decided to create a more appetising menu to woof-up the sales appeal of their products. Consequently, they re-labelled their products with such succulent names as "Horse Meat Loaf"; "Irish Horse-Meat Stew"; and the ever popular "Horse Meat a la Mode."

Unfortunately for the manufacturers, however, the authorities in one state refused to swallow the menu. And a law was enacted that specifically prohibited the use of the tasteful names chosen by the manufacturers for the promotion and sale of dog food. Barking their displeasure, the manufacturers attacked the validity of the law in court.

"The law's an unfair restraint on trade," they doggedly argued. "We've got a right to make our labels as appealing to our customers as possible."

"Why?" queried the state's attorney. "Dogs can't read. On the other hand, the law protects shoppers from grabbing a can off a shelf thinking it's meat loaf or stew for human consumption. Without some protection for the hurried shopper, dinner-time would be chow-time, only if you had a chow."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider the law a necessary protection for shoppers?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that not only should the labels be discontinued, but that dog food should be labeled "unfit for human consumption." In that way, concluded the judge, harassed housewives, trying to cut down on the high cost of living, would be deterred from giving it a try by serving it up to their hungry and unsuspecting husbands on the dinner menu.

Koreans Say Crime Must Be Admitted

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea said Thursday it will not release the three crewmen of an American helicopter shot down Aug. 17 unless the United States admits they were on a criminal mission.

The United States said it would admit only that the helicopter had entered Communist territory inadvertently in violation of the Korean armistice agreement, and would give assurances that such an incident would not recur.

Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, representing North Korea at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss the release of the three Americans, demanded an "unconditional apology" admitting that the helicopter was on a "criminal mission," as well as a written assurance that there will be no more such incidents in the future.

U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur H. Adams replied: "It is preposterous to state that we dispatched the unarmed helicopter willfully or with any hostile intention."

Adams repeated the U.S. contention that the helicopter strayed over North Korea accidentally while on a training flight, and that it had no weapons or advanced navigational equipment aboard.

Despite the refusal of Adams to offer any more than an apology, there was speculation that eventually the United States would secure the release of the airmen by the same device that freed the crew of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo.

After the 82 Navy men had been held for 11 months, the United States signed a statement admitting the ship was spying in North Korea's territorial waters. But just before he signed the document at a ceremony in Panmunjom, the U.S. representative, Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, announced that the State Department had instructed him to repudiate the statement before signing it.

U.S. officials admitted that the procedure of denying the statement and then signing it was "kooky," but they said it seemed to satisfy the North Koreans and resulted in the return of the captives.

The three men now held by North Korea are WO Malcolm W. Loepke, the pilot, of Richmond, Ind.; Capt. David H. Crawford, Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman H. Hofstatter, Lowpoint, Ill.

At an Armistice Commission meeting last Friday, Lee said Crawford and Hofstatter were seriously injured and Loepke was slightly injured.

Yoke Still on Czechs But Spirit Runs Free

By DON GRAFF

For a heart-stopping moment on the anniversary of the Soviet occupation, it appeared that demonstrations might go too far, goading the oppressors into an even more brutal assault on the free spirit than took place a year ago.

But Czechoslovaks did not go too far. For one day they made unmistakably clear that while the loss of their freedom might be a fait accompli, it would never have their acquiesence. Then life returned to normal, if the ever-present awareness of foreign troops poised to crush any attempt to take your destiny into your own hands can be called normal.

The men who hold power in Prague today by right of Soviet bayonets alone deceive no one, least of all themselves, with their Communist phrase book assertions that the demonstrations were the work of "criminal elements" which failed to gain mass support. They know, as the world knows, that the demonstrators spoke for the people, were the people—Czechoslovaks telling the world that one year after the invasion their will and spirit had not been broken.

Even the Soviets must realize by now that with their brutalizing of Czechoslovakia they have at the most bought time, but at what fearful cost. They have not made Czechoslavakia or any other nation of Eastern Europe a more secure or reliable satrapy. They have not crushed the will to freedom in Czechoslovakia or anywhere else in their system, not even at home. They have, in fact, given it new focus and new martyrs.

The will to freedom is contagious. It can never be stamped out completely, and given time it must spread. The time the Soviets have purchased will surely run out for them.

Laser 'Tape' to the Moon

Now we know.

The moon is 232,271.3816 miles from earth—about 130 feet, give or take a few either way, more distant than measurements to date had indicated.

This is the finding of a laser beam which scientists, after several unsuccessful tries, have finally succeeded in bouncing off the reflector left on the lunar surface by Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin.

Strange, that the mission which proved the moon is not unreachable should also reveal that it is farther away than we had thought.

SIKESTON Children Will Star In Movies

Melton Barker will arrive in Sikeston soon to produce a two-reel comedy, according to an announcement by Mr. Charles Calhoun, manager of the Malone Theatre. The picture will be made in Sikeston and around 100 children will be used in the cast.

Mr. Barker is a veteran of this field, having spent 25 years in the business, training children and producing film with them. A number of movie stars were discovered by Mr. Barker; among them, Spanky Mcfarland, the little fat boy in "Our Gang Comedies."

The purpose of making the movie here in Sikeston and a number of other towns - is to see if enough talent can be found to make a TV series similar to "Our Gang" Comedies. All types of talent are needed to make a picture. Mr. Barker says it will take about two weeks to get the cast together and rehearsed so that they will be able to perform for the cameras. Then it will take around one week to do the shooting.

After the cast has been selected, there will be two or three days of rehearsals, teaching them to act before the sound camera. There will be a small charge for training. However, there will be no charge for registering and tryouts.

Children between the ages of 3 and 15 wishing to try out for parts must register at the Malone at once. When the casting director arrives in town, he will get in touch with those who have registered and arrange for tryouts.

Loss of Ho's Rallying Power Could Have Eventual Impact

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In the long run, Ho Chi Minh's departure from the stage can have a decided impact on events in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Ho's passing can prove a strong blow to North Vietnamese and Liberation Front morale. Particularly in his later years, Ho was not the stereotyped figure of a Communist strong-man ruler, but rather a symbol, a father figure, a personality who cannot be replaced.

It was in the name of "Uncle Ho" that appeals went from Hanoi to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, exhorting them to pursue protracted war to the finish, even if it should take 20 years. It was in Ho's name that slogans were fashioned for the unification of Vietnam. It was Ho whose name a dozen years ago was considered so powerful that it, alone, was believed capable of swinging a popular vote in any election. That may have changed under Communist rule in the North, but the name remained potent medicine among many in the South.

Thus it was the name of Ho, rather than the office of the presidency, which carried the authority with the Laodong (Communist) party in the North and with the guerrillas in the South. The question of a successor as president is thus of importance mostly in what it may reveal about the present power structure.

Ho frequently was believed to have been the arbiter of intraparty disputes and the last word in settlement of such disputes among members of what appeared from time to time to be a divided Politburo. His presence could have been sufficient to keep others from squabbling among themselves for power.

Until about five years ago there were strong signs of division in the Politburo along pro-Chinese and pro-Soviet lines. Much in the future depends upon the progress of Soviet Chinese hostility.

It is probable that North Vietnam's future rests in the hands of four top men—Le Duan, the party's first secretary; Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly; Premier Pham Van Dong and Marshal Vo Nguyen Giap.

Chinh has the reputation of being strongly pro-Chinese. His name is an alias, dating from the days when he was with Mao Tse-tung in Yenan at the time of the historic "long march." Truong Chinh means "long-march," a token of his admiration for Mao. He was formerly known as Dang Xuan Khu.

A revolutionist since his youth in the 1920s, Chinh helped Ho and Pham found the Indochinese Communist party and was its propaganda director. He was its secretary general, operating out of China. in 1941, and again in the 1950s. Under Ho's Hanoi regime, Chinh slipped and was demoted for the failure of agriculture in the North. He bounced back, possibly through Peking's then strong influence in Hanoi.

Le Duan, now 62, once was considered pro-Chinese. He seemed to shift in the 1960s, after becoming the party's first secretary. Duan is believed to have a strong machine in the party membership. He was one of Ho's leading commanders in the South when the Vietminh were fighting the French. He is an expert on relations with other Communist parties and has traveled both to Moscow and Peking.

Premier Pham Van Dong, now 62, an early Ho associate, is considered pro-Moscow. He began serving Ho's cause in 1925 when he set up the main revolutionary base in South Vietnam. Since partition in 1954, he has been premier and at one time served simultaneously as foreign minister.

Giap, the defense minister who was architect of the 1954 Dienbienphu victory over the French, is primarily a military man. It is doubtful that he has vaulting political ambitions, but he could have army support in the arena. In any case, he would likely have a strongvoice in the outcome of any power realignment.

Four Snowbound Eskimos Die of Food Poisoning

CAPE DORSET, N.W.T. (AP) — Four Eskimos suffering from food poisoning died here today while waiting to be taken to Montreal, a hospital spokesman in Frobisher Bay said.

Eight other persons, whose condition remains uncertain, are still in Cape Dorset where a violent snowstorm is preventing the landing of a plane which is supposed to take them 1,250 miles south to a hospital in Montreal.

A doctor and a nurse from Frobisher Bay, 250 miles east, tried to land twice during the night, but were forced back by the snowstorm.

A spokesman at the Montreal General Hospital, where the victims are scheduled to be taken, said the Eskimos are suffering from botulism poisoning from canned food.

He said a small supply of serum antidote was given to the victims in Cape Dorset, but this is only a stopgap measure and it is absolutely necessary that they be taken to hospital as soon as possible.

Cannibalism The Rage in Film Festival

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Cannibalism is the rage this year at the Venice Film Festival.

One scene in Federico Fellini's "Satyricon," run three times Thursday for overflow crowds, shows the heirs of poet Eumolpus uncomfortably chomping on his remains. The dead man bequeathed his possessions only to those who would eat his flesh.

Pier Paolo Pasolini, who threw the festival into an uproar last year with his sex- and symbol-charged "Theorams," also did the man-eating bit this year. In his "Porcile" (Pigsty), French actor Pierre Clementi chews the remains of a soldier he has just killed. Later Clementi gets his—wild beasts devour him and his companions.

Among the Italian entries is "The Cannibals," directed by Liliana Cavani, but the cannibalism is largely symbolic. It's about an imaginary regime that prohibits its citizens from burying those killed during riots. But nobody eats anybody.

Joaquim Pedro de Andrade, a Brazilian, serves up feijoada, the melange of meats and black beans that is Brazil's national dish, in his "Macunaima." But it's a feijoada of cannibals, with a giant and his wife as the gastronomes.

De Andrade says his film is a parable, illustrating the dog-eat-dog competition in daily life.

Car Strikes and Kills Paul Pierce

Paul Pierce, 49, Sikeston, tractor - trailer driver for Swift and Company in Dexter, died Thursday at 10 p.m., in Ste. Genevieve County Memorial hospital as the result of a traffic accident at 8:30 p.m. one half mile north of the intersection of highway 61 and route K in Ste. Genevieve county.

His vehicle developed trouble and blocked both highway lanes, the state patrol said.

He was standing on the shoulder near the rear of his truck trying to flag traffic around it when he was struck by a car driven by Jerome Robert Zimmer, 20, Cape Girardeau.

Pierce, 306 Illinois, was born in Gainsville, Ark., July 17, 1920.

On October 26, 1945, he married Doris Wanda Magg, who survives. He is survived by one son, Joey, and two daughters, Mrs. Danny Meeks and Mrs. Dean McDougal, both of Sikeston; one brother, John Pierce, Jackson, Tenn.; one sister, Apha Lou Hosman, Paragould, Ark.; and one grandchild.

He was a veteran of World War II. He was a member of Fellowship Baptist church.

Services will be Saturday at 3 p.m., in the church, with the Rev. Robert Adams and Rev. B. G. Corn officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery with Jackson Funeral Home in charge.

Pallbearers will be Willie C. Adams, Delbert Huddlestwon, Darrell Wilson, Robert Griggs, Gaylon Butler, Robert Campbell, and Charles Lawson.

Hiram Lambert, 46, Sikeston, driver of a 1967 Volkswagen, received minor injuries, and was treated by a Sikeston physician, as the result of an accident Thursday at 7:35 a.m. on Interstate 55, 10 miles north of Sikeston.

He lost control on wet pavement in a rain, went off the highway and overturned.

Slick pavement resulted in a head injury to Bernice Weedle, 39, Warrenton, in an accident Thursday at 11 a.m. on highway 61, two miles two miles north of Brewer in Perry county.

An unidentified car stopped in front of a 1969 Ford, driven by Albert Gaydos, 27, Mattese, and a 1969 Oldsmobile, driven by the Weedle woman, who was driving behind Ford. Brakes of both cars were applied and the cars slid off the road but did not collide.

The Weedle woman was taken to Perry County Memorial hospital in Perryville.

Air Service Survey Will Be Made

Gene Williams, a representative of Mid- Continent Airlines, Memphis, conferred with city officials Thursday about air service for Sikeston. Meeting with Williams were members of the Chamber of Commerce, airport board and city government.

Sikeston as a stopover point if the company begins daily service between Memphis and St. Louis was discussed.

The company will make a survey and study the possibilities. Williams said he would report to the city by Sept. 20.

O. D. Clayton, Chamber manager, said Williams seemed to be impressed with the new airport terminal building.

The building is near completion.

Mid- Continent has been negotiating with Malden about beginning air service there.

Blackwell Renews Tax Hike Opposition

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, today labeled Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' call of a special session to boost the income tax unnecessary and "the most flagrant disregard of the people's will that I have ever witnessed."

Blackwell, Senate President Pro Tem, said in a statement:

"I am informed, without knowledge as to the truth of it, that a sufficient number of senators have been coerced, conned, stampeded or dealt with in such manner that they are now ready to switch and vote for an increase in the personal income tax.

I am further informed that the name of each senator who has now agreed to vote for the unneeded tax raise will not be publicly disclosed for fear that his constituents, a very great majority of whom are against this tax increase, might by public outcry and personal contact change the senator's vote again. Could a more deplorable situation exist within a democratic form of government where the elected representatives supposedly vote the will of a majority of the people?"

He urged Missourians to write their senators and representatives and let them know the public stand on the income tax increase.

"They will heed you," he said. "Such a tax increase is simply not needed at this time and the six cents you spend now for a stamp to write your senator or represenative may save you hundreds of dollars in taxes next year."

Blackwell quoted Sen. Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage, as estimating the tax bill proposed by the governor would increase income tax revenues to between $250 million and $270 million a year. That would be from $100 million to $120 million over present revenues.

Blackwell said that much money was not needed and Hearnes just wanted the money to "throw around and waste."

He called it "a fraud — the whole bit." He said the senators who have agreed to vote for the higher tax on corporate and individual incomes "have been stampeded."

Blackwell said he assumed the governor approached Senate Majority Leader A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, or the other way around, and they agreed that while Blackwell was in the middle of a confusing marital situation it was time to move for the tax boost.

"While he's down let's whack him a time or two," Blackwell said he thought was the agreement of the governor and Vanlandingham.

It was the only direct mention he made of his recent marriage to his secretary, the former Miss Carolyn Sue Ravenscraft.

In his call for the special session, Hearnes said the tax boost he had in mind would boost revenues by $65 million a year. He said the additional money was absolutely necessary to carry on present programs, needed new ones and meet the requirements of public schools and mental institutions.

Blackwell said the administration is not reporting all the revenue. Even with the administration's figures, he said, there should be a surplus of $42 million this year and at least $21 million the following year—all with no new taxes.

He charged Hearnes didn't want the hidden money discovered because he wanted the tax increase right now, even though it was not needed.

Blackwell said the tax revenue increased 12.5 per cent from the 1966-67 fiscal year to the 1967-68 fiscal year. Yet the administration said the increase from the 1967-68 fiscal year to the 1968-69 fiscal year was less than 6 per cent.

"In my opinion," Blackwell saod, "the economy in 1968-69 was better than in 1967-68."

He said he would do anything in his powers in any way he could to defeat he income tax bill that forms the centerpiece of the special session starting next Monday.

Nuclear Test Put off Again

GRAND VALLEY, Colo. (AP) -- An underground nuclear explosion scheduled for western Colorado was postponed for a second time today by the weather advisory panel for Project Rulison.

The Atomic Energy Commission rescheduled the blast for Saturday afternoon after a lengthy weather briefing session and debate.

The delay of the detonation, originally scheduled for Thursday, is costing the private contractors involved an estimated $31,000 a day, according to a spokesman.

Winds which swung from the southeast toward the east during the night and scattered electrical thunderstorms sweeping across the Colorado River Valley caused the decision despite forecasts the winds might improve during the day.

Another briefing was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. MDT, today.

Capt. C. W. Keith of the Colorado State Patrol said it was unlikely the shot will take place Sunday because of traffic problems involved on western Colorado highways.

The 40-kiloton shot, carrying the code name Project Rulison, was scheduled to be touched off today in a hole bored 8,442 feet below Battlement Mesa, 40 miles northeast of Grand Junction in western Colorado.

The test manager's advisory panel okayed the shot Thursday night, after a 24-hour delay caused by unfavorable winds and the possibility of thunderstorms.

The blast was scheduled for 5 p.m. EDT, subject to a review by the advisory board this morning.

A joint project of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and the Austral Oil Co. of Houston, Tex., the blast is designed to shake natural gas out of tight sandstone formations deep in the earth.

Groups seeking to block the shot carried their case three times unsuccessfully to the courts.

Project managers estimate that as much as 60 billion cubic feet of gas may be released.

Vote Needed For Liquor by Drink Sales

Manual Drumm, city attorney, reported this morning that according to an opinion made in 1966 from the state Attorney General's office, vote would be required for liquor by the drunk sales should Sikeston and Miner consolidate.

Drumm cited an opinion dated Nov. 23, 1966. It says when one city has liquor by the drink and one does not an election must be held to determine if all the citizens desired such an ordinance.

There are petitions circulating in Miner that would request the Miner board of trustees to ask the Sikeston City Council to resolve to consolidate if enough signatures are obtained.

Miner has a liquor by the drink ordinance. Sikeston does not.

Crop Progress on Display at Center

By LEO SCHADE

PORTAGEVILLE — Progress in crop growth with weed and insect control was demonstrated at the University of Missouri Delta Center Thursday.

Marred by intermittent rains, a crowd of approximately 300 registered for the 666- acre demonstration tour.

The center opened in the early 1960s, when two plots of ground were given to the university by Mrs. Margaret Marsh and her daughter, Mrs. Matilda Cavanaugh.

A plot of 192 acres, where the offices are located at the south edge of the city was the starting point.

A second section of 666 acres at the intersection of routes T and TT, six miles south of city, was added later. Mrs. Marsh the principal benefactor, died Wednesday.

Tours yesterday were on by six twin bed wagons, mounted with bales of hay, and pulled by tractors, with a seating capacity of approximately 50 each.

Agriculture plots demonstrations were by extension and research leaders, Joe Scott, Harold D. Kerr, Henry DiCarlo, George T. Hull, Leonard Hand, C. M. Woodruff, James Roth, Keith Harrendorf, David Pratt, Leo Duclos, E. B. Nace and W. P. Sappenfield.

Experiements were shown to solve weed control problems in cotton and soybeans and increased crop quality and production.

A sugar beet project, which has been developed in the three counties of New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin, for seven years, has proven successful. It will be a future development when an allotments in acreage has been approved for the area. Three hundred acres were used n the experiment.

Plots of deep plowing were shown where a clay soil is found 27 inches deep with 25 per cent clay, compared to the topsoil where only 6 per cent clay soil is found.

Research in soybeans is being made. From 10 to 20 varieties are being tested in four major soil types. Improvement in insect control has brought satisfactory results only to have a new variety of insects to be discovered.

The latest soybean plant destroyer was found last year and is being watched. It is a weed borer in the plant known as dectes spinosus, a form of larvae that was found near Frawley, five miles west of Portageville.

The insect enters the plant near the stem, laid its eggs inside the plant. Larvae travels downward in the stem and on its return upward weekens the plant and it breaks six to ten inches above the ground with the slightest touch.

SPACE LAW

Some 2,000 attorneys from 103 nations will meet for six days beginning Sunday, Sept. 7, in Bangkok, Thailand, to discuss problems of international law. This is the fourth annual conference on World Peace Through Law and the first to be held in Asia.

The aim is not at "world government" nor even some kind of international charter but the proliferation of international treaties and the free international exchange of legal information. The President of the World Peace Through Law Center, Charles S. Rhyne, says: "The more law we have, the more peace we have." Retired Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman of the World Association of Judges, will preside at sessions of his group.

One of the subjects on the Bangkok agenda is outer space law. A United Nations treaty provides that the moon is free for exploration and use by all states. Outer space including the moon and other celestial bodies is not subject to national appropriation. No state has ever protested against the passage of satellites through air space above its territory.

However, some international lawyers feel it is time to consider laws governing such other problems as assistance to astronauts in distress, damages caused by space vehicle landings on earth, and the like. Some experts suggest it is time for a formal agreement defining space sovereignty. This would help clarify the right of innocent passagy through the upper reaches of space.

A GREATER POWER

Death tolls in states that were swept by the winds of the hurricane "Camille" continue to mount as more bodies are recovered. Many roads are still closed by obstructions left in the wake of the big wind, and communications are just getting back to normal in some areas. The homeless are even now still temporarily housed. And it will be many months, and possibly years, before some areas gain a semblance of their pre-storm condition.

We live in a wondrous age. An age of conveniences unknown as recently as a decade ago. Man has touched the moon. He has photographed Mars. The atom has been split. Polio is no longer the dread disease it once was. High speed travel has been extended from the skies to the rails and highways. Longevity has reached peaks unheard of. Hearts and other vital organs have been taken from one person or animal and placed in the body of another.

But there is still a greater power. Some view the ravages of nature, such as Camille, or the floods we have witnessed in many of our river ports, as a warning to man - a reminder of that greater power. They could be right. They are effective reminders of the strength of God's powers.

There is another side of these tragedies that should not be overlooked: At no time other than times of disaster do men and women of all age groups, religions and races gather together in a spirit of mutual cooperation. The pettiness of bigotry and dissent are set aside by all with few exceptions. We learn on one another in unity of purpose which, were it not for the tragedies that bring us together in the first place, would be a thing of true beauty.

Perhaps we should all take a long hard look at the aftermath of these tragedies. The clean up and the search for loved ones should be reviewed after the fact and kept alive in our memories and our hearts. Tragedy is the great equalizer. It knows no limits. It touches all of us. How deep and how permanent the impact is up to us.

GOVERNMENT SPENT $18 BILLION ON WELFARE PROGRAMS IN 1968

Spending by Federal, state and local governments for all welfare programs based on the NEED of the benefit recipients totaled close to $18 billion in fiscal 1968, about two - and - one - half times the cost eight years earlier.

Included in the total are dozens of separate welfare programs -- public assistance, cash and medical care for the aged, blind, disabled, and families with dependent children; other hospital and health care, child welfare, food stamps, school lunches, and special Office of Economic Opportunity programs.

Public assistance is the largest group of these programs, and aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) is the biggest single assistance program.

Excluded in this computation, pointed out the new study PUBLIC WELFARE PROGRAMS: ISSUES, PROBLEMS AND PROPOSALS, are such other programs as education, social security and veterans benefits which are not determined by the need of the recipient.

The number of persons receiving AFDC "increased at the rate of 325,000 a year." The number rose from just over 3 million to almost 6 million in the 1960-1968 period. It is estimated there will be almost 7 million on the rolls in fiscal 1970 (begun July 1, this year).

Continuous increases in AFDC rolls have been attributed to a variety of factors: accelerated migration of unskilled rural migrants to urban areas; recent court decisions nullifying local welfare residency requirements; shortened waiting periods for eligibility; relaxation of eligibility standards and other reasons.

Attempting to cut the growth in recipient rolls in 1967, Congress put a mandatory freeze on the number of children for which the Federal government would make matching payments. Congress also stipulated that certain AFDC recipients (generally, able-bodied adults) would lose benefits if they refused without good cause to take a job or undergo training for a job. The freeze was supposed to go into effect on July 1, this year, but the effective date has been postponed.

Proposals for AFDC reform include suggestions for establishing through Federal legislation a national minimum benefit level and other more sweeping "federalization" of the welfare system, including financing. Opponents say the latter approach would remove the states' administrative role and absolve them from any part of the programs' cost; and that "federalization" would also "stifle the local and regional experimentation required" to develop more adequate solutions to the welfare problem.

It has also been suggested, said the study, that the present system be replaced in whole or in part by a negative income tax, minimum income support and a family or children's allowance plan. Critics contend the administration of a negative income tax plan would be anything but simple; that such plans are inherently inequitable and involve politically prohibitive costs. They say, according to the study, that the most promising programs for the alleviation of poverty lie in job creation and work training.

However, the Foundation noted, evaluation of alternatives to the present system should rest upon more evidence than is yet available as to relative costs and achievements. "Much will depend on the effectiveness of methods to make presently dependent children productive and self-supporting, thus breaking the vicious circle of poverty."

SWINGING BACK TOWARD A MORE EVEN KEEL

The nation is accustomed to budgetary "surprises."

The art or science of predicting where a fiscal year will wind up when all the figures are in -- even giving or taking a billion or two -- is a skill that eludes the best brains in the government who have devoted lifetimes to studying the economy and how it affects and is affected by that vast, amorphous and immensly complicated thing called the national budget.

But memory fails to recall the last time the surprise was so far on the black side of the ledger. Usually it is the other way around -- a projected deficit of $1 billion turns out to be a deficit of $4 billion, or something equally outlandish.

This time, a projected surplus (a rarity in itself) that was pegged at $900 million as recently as last May proved to be too low by a factory of more than three. The end of fiscal 1969 on June 30 found the U. S. treasury with receipts exceeding expenditures by an imposing $3.1 billion.

The country is still suffering from the inflationary influences of the staggering Johnson administration deficit of $25.4 billion in fiscal 1968 and the smaller deficits that preceded it with annual regularity. The current surplus, the first since 1960 and the largest since 1957, is likely to do more to cool the overheated economy than any amount of tinkering with interest rates or other such "fine tuning."

It is not only that this $3.1 billion should help to retire some of the national debt, the interest charges on which are alone claiming more than $17 billion a year out of the budget. Just as important will be its psychological effect. If people -- businessmen and labor leaders, consumers and congressmen -- believe that the economy is entering a "dis-inflationary" cycle (not "deflationary," for that is too scary a word), that belief will itself tend to reinforce all the other signs of such a trend.

The Nixon administration forecast a surplus of $6.3 billion for fiscal 1970 before the 10 per cent income tax surcharge was extended, or a "small" deficit if the surcharge was not extended. The fact that the experts were $2.2 billion off in their estimates for fiscal 1969 only a month before it ended tempers optimism, however.

A lot can happen between now and next July. The nation is still a long way from solving the mystery of how to have prosperity without at least a little inflation and a little unemployment, or how to meet the goals it sets for itself without printing at least a little unemployment, or how to meet the goals it sets for itself without printing at least a little funny money.

But the taxpayers' surprise gift of $3.1 billion to the treasury gives hope that, for the present at least, the financial ship of state is swinging back toward a more even keel.

Hal Boyle

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Eventually it will all come out in the wash. But today's laundress needs a degree in chemistry to make sure it does.

Where once a dash of soap was all it took for a white Monday, now there's a bewildering array of detergents, water conditioners, brighteners, bluings, bleaches, fabric softeners, sizing agents, enzyme soakers and finishes.

Oh, I'm not suggesting that we housewives go back to pounding the dirty clothes on a rock at the neighborhood stream. I don't even urge that we return to the galvanized washtub and corrugated scrub board.

But I do look back with nostalgia to the good old days when you could throw the contents of the laundry hamper into a machine, push a few buttons here and there and sit down for another cup of coffee.

In order to employ all the latest scientific laundry aids, I now have to stand by with a stopwatch, an instruction booklet, a textile manual for judging the type of fabric involved, a microscope for determining the nature of the various stains and a whole shelf full of lotions and potions to add to the wash water at stated intervals.

Blue Monday shares its color scheme these days with every other hue of the rainbow. Green, pink, yellow and polka-dot powders, granules, liquids, pellets and giant-size pills have all gotten into the washday act.

Their effectiveness in the mechanical washtub is apparently linked up in some way to the brevity and nonsense value of their name. Inclusion of such unusual letters as X and Z in the title also contribute to the efficacy of the product.

It takes time and patience to perform washday miracles in this scientific age. I've evolved a schene, however, to make sure the time spent standing wash watch isn't completely wasted.

I set up the ironing board near the machine and when I'm not involved with chemical analysis or the addition of a multitude of liquids and solids in proper sequence, I'm profitably employed: I use the time to press my husband's wash and wear shirts.

It All Depends

"Advertising is like fire, everything depends upon how it is used," Henry R. Richards told an Alpha Delta Sigma convention.

"For anyone, advertiser or consumer, to praise or condemn advertising as a whole, would be about as intelligent as to praise or condemn fire, music, art, or atomic energy. Advertising is a technique of presenting an affirmative case for a product or an idea.

"It may be used to promote snake oil or an antituberculosis campaign. Employed with good taste in spreading public acquaintance with meritorious articles, it has a real function to perform. Used to accent the shoddy and the worthless and thus undermine the consumer faith in our advancing Technology, it may prove a grave disservice."

COUNTABLE BLESSINGS

Many of us take for granted the blessings which are ours simply because we are Americans. Most of us have never known any other countries. Our parents knew nothing of life in other lands.

We have never lived where we had to be in mortal fear of the secret police, where our neighbor or close friend might be a government spy.

We have not had a government which censored the news and permitted newspapers to publish only what the ruling party desired. We have never lived in a land where propaganda had supplanted news as the principal content of newspapers.

We live in a country where it is lawful to hold peaceful assemblies and to worship God as we believe proper. We have never been subject to unreasonable search or seizure.

It is noteworthy that people who have experienced totalitarian rule mostly have a far greater appreciation of America than those of us who have always lived here. People who have at some time deprived of freedom, or who have lived where freedom did not exist, have a greater understanding of the blessings of America than the rest of us. They are not ashamed to be patriotic. They say, and mean it from the heart, "It's great to be an American!"

The rest of us can profit from their example. An answer to the often-repeated question, "What can I, one person, do?" is for every patriot to let his patriotism show. Freely voiced expressions of love for freedom will inspire others. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

--Soviet Bomb Threat--

Two full months before the story broke on the front pages, Jack Anderson dug out the secret intelligence report on the possible Soviet attack upon Red China's nuclear works. The column reported on June 12 that "Moscow may stage hit-and-run strikes at China's nuclear laboratories and armament centers in order to eliminate China as a nuclear threat." This was followed with specific details taken from the intelligence report. Two months later major newspaper confirmed the existence of such a report and the possibility of preventative Soviet strikes against China and a worldwide controversy was stirred by that possibility.

WASHINGTON--The army has suppressed the full facts about defects in the M-16 rifle, which has been jamming on our soldiers in combat.

This is revealed in confidential army documents, which dispute the official word put out to Congress, the press and the public. For two years, the Army has been saying that the fundamental defect was the soldier himself.

"There's nothing wrong with the M-16," an Army spokesman told this column just this week. "If a man doesn't keep his weapon clean, it won't fire."

Thiis is not quite the whole truth. In early 1967, reports began filtering out of Vietnam that the M-16 was displaying a fatal tendency to jam in combat. Congress herd military leaders and firearms experts testify that jamming was caused by battle stress, broken parts, faulty ammunition and plain dirt.

A subcommittee headed by Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., determined that the gunpowder being used in the 22-caliber cartridge was woefully deficient. He accused the Army of action that "borders on criminal negligence."

Still the Army insisted that the M-16 was the best individual weapon ever used by the U.S. soldier, if only he would keep it properly cleaned and oiled.

--Confidential Corrosion--

Confidential Army reports disclose, however, that the malfunctioning M-16 has shown a tendency, under certain conditions, to corrode--a process the army calls "exfoliation." This, in laymen's terms, means that the alumnium parts of the lightweight rifle tend to "rust" or "rot" away in tiny slivers, leaving depressions, cracks and gaping holes--frequently in the essential moving parts of the weapon.

One Army study of 200 rifles showed that "10 per cent of the rifles in the Northern part" of South Vietnam and "50 per cent of the rifles in the Southern part exhibited some degree of exfoliation." The confidential documents make quite clear that the Southern-based soldiers aren't merely more careless but that the M-16s are subject to greater "exfoliation" in the humid and salty environment of the Delta region.

Army experts not only have been aware of this trouble but have been trying to cure it for more than two years. The latest Army study of "exfoliation" was completed as recently as August 15. Yet one confidential document declares flatly that "no cure for the problem has been found."

--Unreliable Weapon--

The accumulation of small defects in the M-16 add up to one inescapable conclusion. Although the weapon was purchased to solve the special problems of close-in combat in Vietnam, it is basically not reliable for jungle warfare.

As a result of the rifle's erratic performance, U.S. combat soldiers in a firefight will throw down their M-16s and pick up any Ak-47 rifles that the ragtag Viet Cong abandon on the battlefield

Officially, the Army forbids GIs to carry the AK-47, but unofficially Army instructors teach the troops how to handle the weapon. For the sturdy, Soviet-made AK-47 will function even when rusted and caked with jungle mud.

The basic rights to the M-16 are owned by colt industries which, for a $4.5 million consideration from the taxpayers, agreed to allow other companies to help produce the controversial rifle. Almost 1.5 million M-16s have been purchased, all susceptible to corrosion.

Since Colt engineers have failed to come up with a solution, the Army is now preparing to send "repair kits" to U.S. units in Vietnam. In the guerrilla-infested jungles all over Vietnam, the battle-beleaguered soldier will be expected to consult his amended manual, TM 9-1005-249-34, and to select one of three procedures for repairing his weapon.

--Jungle Repairs--

If "filler is needed to patch holes or cracks in either upper or lower receiver areas" of his M-16, for example, the soldier will select "procedure B":

"1. Sand exfoliated area with no. 80 grit emery paper until all traces of corrosion have been removed.

"2. Wash area with naptha, trichlorothylene, or methylene-chloride to remove all dirt, grease, and/or foreign material.

"3. Apply cement, epoxy, metal repair and hull smoothing specification MIL-C-24176 (ships), FSN 8030-670-8553, mixed in accordance with the manufacturer's directions to areas to be filled.

"4. Spread filler as smooth as possible into repaired area using a putty knife or similar tool.

"5. Place a sheet of polyethylene, previously cut to size, over the filled area and rub by hand or with a small roller to smoothen.

"6. Remove the polyethylene sheet after curing as recommended by the manufacturer.

"7. Spray with one (1) coat of lubricant, solid film, air drying, corrosion inhibiting, riapd 703, utilizing instructions supplied by the manufacturer. Allow to air dry for 12-16 hours before use. Adequate ventilation is recommended."

And while the soldier is so deeply involved in all these complexities of modern American technology, the rusty AK-47s will be firing away all around him.

--Golfers Rescued--

Military helicopters were urgently needed for rescue and relief flights following the recent floods in Central Virginia. Yet the Marine base at Quantico, Virginia, diverted one of its rescue helicopters to Ashland to pick up five professional golfers who were blocked by flooded roads from reaching a golf tournament on the base.

Expensive Loyalty:
Soviet Capitalist Investment Abroad Finance -- And Control -- World Communist Parties

Bucharest, Romania -- Money may not buy everything. But it helps. It pays for political loyalty, especially if one is running a massive Communist Party in Western Europe.

The bigger the party, the bigger its deficits. The bigger the deficits, the greater the dependence on Moscow's intricate system of financing. To finance its overt operations, Moscow no longer dispatched bundles of cash by couriers or camouflaged businessmen. That's crude. Sort of amateurish James Bond. Instead, the Soviet Union now runs respectable central city banks, commercial sales agencies, film companies set up to shoot a single capital gains picture, brokerage firms and publishing houses.

The price of money is cheap -- if the party strategists and intellectual doesn't mind paying in self-respect. But no absolute loyalty, no money.

In this fashion, by freezing the flow of money from Soviet-controlled front corporations, Moscow kept in line the angered Western Communist Parties, especially those of France and Italy, when they revolted against the Soviet invasion of Czecechoslovakia last fall.

At first, the pressure came from the continent-hopping former secret police chief -- and now "trade union" chairman -- Aleksander Shelepin. He phoned Communist Party chiefs and Red labor federation leaders all across Europe.

But outside the bloc, they thumbed their ideological noses at him. Then Moscow dumped tons of "explanatory" literature into Western Europe and Italy -- aimed directly at the 290,000-member French Party and the 1.6 million-member Italian CP.

Then, when Western Communist-controlled unions and parties refused to buckle, the Soviet Union cut off the cash flow.

Bank credits to party commercial enterprises ended.

Sales agencies, through which merchants and industrialists must deal if they wish to sell to the Soviet Union and some of the satellites, suddenly ceased paying commissions. Thus the salesman, who are the conduits jbetween the sales houses and the Communist Parties, stopped drawing cash.

Much of this cash flows directly into the party treasuries in the lowlands, France and Italy.

Since virtually all those who do business with the Soviet block must work through these purchasing houses, the commission is enormous. When I was last in Paris, intelligence sources reported this "commission" to be five per cent.

That's the Surete Nationale estimate. And they know.

Just how much money this pours into the French Communist Party for example, it is difficult to estimate -- exactly. But there are guidelines. In 1967 French businessmen sold the Soviet Union $155 million worth of goods. Of this, some $44 million was paid for machinery of all types by the Soviets. The Moscow purchasing trusts spent another $17.2 million for textile yarn, fibers, etc.

Some $16 million went for French chemicals; $9.9 million for footwear; $2.9 million for food; $2.4 million for clothing; $2.1 million for synthetic rubber; $2 million for iron and steel products. And so it went. The commission totaled up to a fine capitalist sum. Fine indeed. This past May 26, Paris and Moscow signed a trade agreement permitting to France to sell $500 million worth of equipment annually.

There, too, the Russians bought millions of dollars worth of machinery, chemicals, shoes, textiles, clothing, fruit and vegetables, etc.

But in Italy, the Soviets whipped up something new. They organized motion picture companies. They actually produced and put films into the open market. At least one of these ran in New York last month.

One picture was shot in Reggio Emilia in northern Italy. But the party ideologists were angered by the script, which just did not follow the line faithfully. So the producer shut up shop and left the star, cast and technical troupe standed. They complained to the Italian Communist Party itself. They were rebuffed. The star then announced he would join the Maoist-Leninist Party.

The pressure worked on all fronts. The tough French Communist Party, which for so long has had jurisdiction over the tiny American CP, grumbled, lost two orof its leading theoreticians, but did not break with Moscow.

The Italian Party huffed and puffed, counted its balance sheet credits, totaled its liabilities, talked about "friendly autonomy" in dealing with the Soviets. But it went along. It is top-heavy. Without Moscow's financial props, it would crumble.

Ann Landers

Father's Last Wishes Not Good For Relations

Dear Ann Landers: After sitting home for 28 years (three dates the whole time) I decided to lose some weight, become a blond, change jobs and go where the action is. Here is my record for the past 16 months and I am ready to admit something is wrong with me. Can you tell me what?

I have managed to attract three married men whose wives don't understand them, two married men whose wives understand them TOO well, one Captain of Industry who drives a Mercedes Benz but never has enough money for gas, a musician who smokes crazy cigarets, a 52-year-old insurance adjuster who is impotent and a 23-year-old kid who calls me Mrs. Robinson and wants me to teach him a few things.

Dear Bella: The trouble with any rat race is that you are racing with rats. And the rats usually win.

Change jobs again and get involved in some extra-curricular activities that appeal to decent, stable people.

Dear Ann Landers: Dad died ten days before graduation. He had cancer and knew for several weeks that he wasn't going to make it. Dad made Mom promise that she would not go into mourning and that she would make us kids go on with our normal schedules after he died. His philosophy was that life is for the living and that when a loved one dies the family should waist no time sitting around crying.

My heart was heavy, but I went to the senior prom. My sister was invited to the Annapolis graduation and she went, also. Now my two aunts are mad at my kmother and won't speak to her. They say we are rotten kids and it is Mom's fault for allowing us to be disrespectful to Dad's memory. Mom told them Daddy wanted it that way but they say he didn't really — that he just said it.

Please express your opinion. Our whole family has respect for you. — Philadelphia

Dear Phil: Your mother deserves credit for having had the courage to follow your father's instructions. An orchid to her, a bouquet of roses to your wonderful dad — and a bunch of thistles to your aunts

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to "Hurt Feelings" was terrible. She was the woman who started to sit down in the dainty antique chair and the hostess took her arm and led her to the sofa — much to her embarrassment. "Hurt Feelings" said the hostess was a boor. You said the fat lady should have known better.

The following is from a book on antiques: "A chair too wobbly for use should be discarded or placed in a museum. To be of value, an antique chair must be sturdy and in good condition so guests can sit on it."

And now what have you to say for yourself, Miss Knowitall? — Pearlie

Dear P: That's one man's opinion. Now here's one woman's.

An obese woman should have more sense than to head for a dainty chair whether it is old or new. Such a chair was not constructed to hold her — either in the 18th century or now.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

McDonough Returns From Church Council

DALLAS -- The Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of The First Assembly of God Church, has returned to Sikeston, from Dallas, where the largest General Council in the 55-year history of the Assemblies of God closed Tuesday, August 26. Peak attendance reached, 12,500.

Others attending the council from First Assembly of God were Mrs. T. A. McDonough and Patti Bollinger, Oran.

Election of the denomination's eight executive officers returned six incumbents and brought two new men into office. The Rev. Thomas F. Zimmerman, Springfield, Mo., general superintendent since 1960, was relected for a four-year term by a 93% vote on the nominating ballot.

Two incumbent assistant general superintendents were returned to office. They are the Rev. T. E. Gannon and Charles W. H. Scott. Two others were elected, replacing the Rev. Howard S. Bush, who died in office in March, 1969, and the Rev. Bert Webb, who announced at the Council that he would not be available for re-election. Webb had served as an assistant general superintendent for 20 years, and expressed a desire to return to a regular preaching ministry without further administrative responsibilities.

The two newly-elected assistant general superintendents are the Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, president of North Central Bible College, Minnespolis, since 1961; and the Rev. Kermit Reneau, pastor, First Assembly of God, San Antonio, Texas. Both men had served as area executive presbyters of the Assemblies of God.

The Rev. J. Philip Hogan was re-elected for a two-year term as assistant general superintendent with the portfolio of executive director of the foreign missions department.

General Secretary Bartlett Peterson and general treasurer M. B. Netzel were also re-elected, both for a two-year term.

In a pre-council session, the 200-man general presbytery of the Assemblies of God named the Rev. Westley Hurst, as field secretary for the Far Eastern area of the Assemblies of God foreign missions ministry. The Rev. Hurst replaces the Rev. Maynard L. Ketcham, who has chosen to retire after many years in that position. Hurst began his foreign missions career in Tanzania, East Africa, and more department, with headquarters in Springfield, Mo.

Growth and necessity for increased service and outreach were predominant themes of the biennial reports given during the council sessions. Membership in the Assemblies of God in this country is up 8.6 percent, to 625,660. There are now 8,570 A/G churches in this country. Net gain in ordained and licensed ministers during the biennium was 521, bringing the total number to 17,026.

The church has 969 overseas missionaries in 85 countries. This reflects a net increase in foreign missions personnel of 213 since the 1967 report. The Assemblies of God has 323 home missionaries under appointment.

During an audio-visual presentation on Sunday afternoon, the church delegates heard a projection of plans for the second year of its five-year plan of advance. "Impact 700 -- Go and Tell," is the theme for the year, during which the church will carry out concentrated witnessing efforts in seven metropolitan areas in the United States and seven overseas.

"Impact 70" areas in the United States will be Alburquerque, N. Mex.; Charlotte, N. C.; Omaha, Neb.; New York City; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco, Calif.; and Minnespolis - St. Paul, Minn.

Overseas areas will be Kinshasa, Congo; Salisburn, Rhodesia; Mexico City, Mexico; Teheran, Iran; Djakarta, Indosesia; Bahia Blanca, Argentina; and Noumea, New Caledonia.

In other business, delegates authorised a study of the over-all Assemblies of God headquarters structure, functions, and assignments, with a report to be submitted to the General Council scheduled for August 1971 in Philadelphia.

The Gospel Visitor

By: REEDUS M. BAUGHER

We continue, with those who have difficulties, in dealing with the lost. There are many difficulties which, to these, seems insurmountable. Although Satan never ceases his efforts, he will continue to tempt us, we have shown from God's word how these difficulties can be overcome.

But one says, "To be a Christian will hurt my business," or "I can't Remember that Jesus said, "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" (Mark 8:36-37) Especially for the benefit of these Jesus toid the parable of the rich farmer. (Lk. 12:16-21) Nothing said, about it being wrong simply because he had an abundance. But, it was his attitude toward this "bumper crop" that Jesus condemned. He could have used his riches for good, but instead, he planned for his own ease. And failed to recognize the source of his abundance. His thoughts were, "What shall I do," "I have," "My fruits," "this will I do," "I will . . ." "there will I . . ." "All my fruits and my goods," and "I will say to my soul . . " Ah! Riches! how secure thou art. "But God said unto him, thou fool . . . (vs. 20) This man forgot the Giver, and everyone else but himself. But in reality he had forgotten himself. For riches are powerless to secure the soul. And what's life? A vapor said James. (4:14)

Let us not forget what Christ gave up. "For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich." (2 Cor. 8:9) It would help also to remember the example of the apostle Paul. "But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ." (Phil. 3:7)

Says another, "The Christian life is too hard." But the Bible says, "Good understanding giveth favor: but the way of the transgressor is hard." (Prov. 13:15) Jesus invites: "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest . . . For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." (Matt. 11:28-30) "For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous." (1 Jno. 5:3) But, "I will lose my friends." If so, consider the friends you will gain. (1 Jno. 1:3) Finally one might say, "It is too late." "The Lord is not slack concerning his promises, as some men count slackness; but is long suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentence." (2 Pet. 3:9) "Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation." (2 Cor. 6:2)

NEW YORK (AP) - The Penn Central Railroad, trying to attract women riders, inaugurated Wednesday a "glamour route" Philadelphia - to - New York train that offered a fashion show, hair styling advice and a wine-tasting party.

FOOD THOUGHTS

Easton, Pa. AP - One of the many American males on a low cholesterol diet, it developes, is President Nixon.

In an article in the Easton Express she said that after she proposed limiting the fat content in hot dogs to 30 per cent she received a call from the President, who said:

Namath Sounds off

Namath said Thursday night he might not play in the New York Jets interleague game with the Dallas Cowboys because of an injured left leg.

"I hurt my leg against Minnesota last week and I haven't practiced all week," the bewhiskered Super Bowl hero said after he blew into Dallas. "I might not play at all."

The flamboyant quarterback said he'll decide on Saturday night if he'll play.

"We've got to go for next week," he said. "That's when the season starts against Buffalo—not Dallas."

While Dallas Coach Tom Landry praised Namath's speed, accuracy and timing with the Jets' secondary, Namath said he wasn't all that impressed with the Cowboys front four, its famed Doomsday Defense.

"The Cowboys' front four doesn't even compare with Minnesota," Namath said. "But Bob Lilly, defensive ackle, is the exception. He's fabulous."

The Jets, 3-2, edged the Vikings 24-21 last weekend. Nanath completed 13 of 24 passes for 219 yards and two touchdowns. The Cowboys, 3-1, nipped the Houston Oilers 14-11.

While Dallas fans wait for wod on Namath, a sellout crowd of 65,000 in Los Angeles might be faced with the temptation of divided allegience when O.J. Simpson returns to the scene of his college exploits.

Will they root for the Rams Saturday night? Or will the sight of Simpson, a hometown boy who signed with Buffalo after a dazzling career with Southern Cal, prompt cheers for the other team?

The Heisman Trophy-winning halfback, he most prized rookie in pro football history, started running with the Bills' first unit Wednesday, and although Coach John Rauch hasn't said he was goint to start for the Rams, Simpson said there's a chance he might.

Simpson has already carried 12 times for 52 yards in games with the Lions, Colts and Bears.

In other games Saturday, the New York Giants, 0-3, are at Minnesota, 3-1; Pitsburgh, 1-2 is at Green Bay, 2-2; Houston, 2-2, is at New Orleans, 2-2; Atlanta, 2-2, at Kansas City, 5-0; Cleveland, 2-1-1, at Washington, 2-2; Detroit, 3-1, meets Philadelphia, 2-1, at Raleigh, N.C.; Boston, 2-2, travels to Miami, 0-5; and Cincinnati, 2-2, hosts Denver, 1-3.

The Bills, 1-4, are making their first appearance in Los Angeles since their 1960 victory over the Chargers in the first year of the American Football League. Jack Kemp, who quarterbacked the Chargers in that game, missed the game with the Bears last week because of a sore elbow, but is expected to be ready for the Rams.

The Rams' 24-21 decision over San Diego snapped a two-game losing streak to Cleveland and Kansas City after victory over Dallas. Tight end Bill Truaz and offensive tackle Bob Brown are questionable starters for Los Angeles because of injuries.

The Giants, looking for their first preseason victory, will offer the Vikings a bolstered running game, with the return of Tucker Frederickson and Joe Morrison. Frederickson gained 47 yards on 11 carries and Morrison waswas three for 33 in last week's 24-17 loss to jphiladelphia.

The Vikings registered their first loss to the Jets after beating Miami, Denver and St. Louis. Gary Cuozzo will start at quarterback although Joe Kapp is expected to see some action after missing two games because of an injured knee.

The Pittsburgh-Green Bay game will match the quarterbacking of Steelers' rookie Terry Hanratty and the Packers' Bart Starr. Hanratty completed four of seven passes for 88 yards in Pittsburgh's loss to Cincinnati and Starr hit on 12 of 22 passes to wipe out a 0-14 deficit in Green Bay's victory over Cleveland.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATTING—Cesar Tovar, Twins, hit a grand slam home run in the 10th inning to give Minnesota a 10-5 victory over Oakland.

Thursday's Fights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PORTLAND, Maine - Irish Jimmy McDermott, 170, Holyoke, Mass., knocked out Nat Edwards, 175, New York, 3.

LOS ANGELES — Ruben Novarro, 133, Los Angeles, outpointed Ron Collado, 133, Dominican Republic, 10.

Davis' Streak Ended; LA Falls to Fourth

The pitch from Gary Ross of the San Diego Padres came in high and tight. Willie Davis swung and missed it for a third strike on a 1-2 count.

Thus came to an end Thursday night the longest consecutive game hitting streak in the major leagues in a quarter of a century.

The center fielder for the Los Angeles Dodgers had hit safely in 31 consecutive games and was within hailing distance of the modern National League record of 37 set by Tommy Holmes of the old Boston Braves in 1945.

Not only did the Padres stop Davis, but they blanked the Dodgers 3-0 dropping them to third place behind San Francisco and Cincinnati in the NL West mad scramble. It was the only NL game scheduled.

Minnesota beat Oakland 10-5 in 10 innings, Baltimore shaded Detroit 5-4, California shut out the Chicago White Sox 1-0 and Kansas City defeated Seattle 5-3 in the four American League games scheduled.

"Well, at least it took two of them to get me," said a disappointed Davis.

He referred to Dick Kelley and Ross, the two Padres pitchers. Kelley started, but had to leave in the third inning because of a sore shoulder. Ross came in and completed a fourhit shutout. He and Kelley each yielded two hits.

This is what happened to Davis:

Third inning—Against Ross, came up with two on and again grounded out to Arcia.

Fifth inning—against Ross, came up again with two on and grounded to first baseman Nate Colbert, who threw to Ross, covering first, for the putout.

Eight inning—against Ross, came up with Manny Mota on first and struck out.

Al Ferrera, a former Dodger, drove in all three runs for the Padres. He doubled home Roberto Pena and Ollie Brown in the third and hit a home run in the sixth.

Meantime, the San Francisco Giants who are rolling along with 12 victories in 14 games, hope they can shake off their September jinx when they open an eight-game tough road trip at Houston tonight.

This is the month in which the Giants have faded and finished second four straight years. This happened even when they had a 14-game winning streak in September, 1965, and in September, 1966, when they won eight of nine games in one span, including six in a row.

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa State's Cyclones held two-hour sessions Monday in preparation for the Sept. 20 opener at Syracuse. They were full scale contact workouts. Ijured regulars Wayne Beske and Tom Hilden returned to workouts but tight end Ton Lorenz is still slowed by a strained back muscle.

Hart's Finger Holds Roseborough Future with Big Red

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Whether the St. Louis football Cardinals are a two- quarterback team or a three- quarterback team depends on the index finger of Jim Hart's throwing hand.

The third quarterback, if there is one, likely will be Ed Roseborough, a rookie out of Arizona State. He had some good moments in the Cardinals' loss to the Kansas City Chiefs last week, but Coach Charley Winner was pretty reserved about his praise for Roseborough.

"You can't deny that he produced," Winner said. "He did a pretty good job although he did throw that touchdown pass to Gilliam up for grabs."

Winner was talking about a 49-yard scoring pass to John Gilliam, in the fourth quarter. Roseborough admittedly threw the pass up and hoped Gilliam would run under it. Gilliam did, but National Football League quarterbacks, at least the good ones, don't live on hope.

And then there's the fact that Cardinals already have put quarterback Dave Olivo on the reserve list. With one quarterback on the list already, there doesn't appear to be any room for Roseborough. And if Hart heals quickly enough, Winner indicated, there won't be any room for Roseborough on the Big Red squad.

The big question is will Hart heal quickly enough.

"I don't know," Winner said. "He threw a couple of passes in practice and then his arm began bothering him.

SEMO State College Gridders To Hold Scrimmage Tonight

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Like most football coaches, Tom Thrower of Southeast Missouri State College claims his team has "certain weaknesses." But, from all indications to date, the offensive line is not one of them.

Thrower says, with obvious confidence, "We could have a really good offensive line. We just have average size, but we are real quick."

In act, the Indian mentor gives the impression that team speed is going to be a major asset for the Indians this fall. For, in addition to a nimble line, one of the players now in the running for the spot vacated by Little All-American Walt Smallwood, is Al Holmes, a 160-pound junior from St. Louis.

Mainstays in the offensive line which Thrower is so high on at the moment includes Ron Helms, a 190- pound junior from St. Louis at center; Ken Henderson, a 211- pound senior from Normandy at guard; Steve Johnson, a 230- pound junior from Granite City, Ill., at tackle; and Ken Joggerst, a 214- pound senior from Ste. Genevieve at tight end.

Thrower is also pleased with the early appearance of two returning offensive backs, quarterback Greg Schroeder, a 185- pound senior from St. Louis, and fullback Bruce Hoffman, a 200- pound senior from Park Forest, Ill. "They'll be ready," he assures quietly.

The biggest weakness which concerns Thrower is the lack of an experienced secondary. John Bean, a 160- pound sophomore from St. Louis, is the only returning defensive back with any experience.

One of the players being seriously looked at for a secondary post is Bruce Nall, a 190- pound senior from Poplar Bluff who, until this season, has been used primarily as a kicking specialist.

Othes being given a try-out include Bob Rudd, a 167- pound transfer student from Des Moines, Iowa, and Jim Powell, a 168- pound freshman from Webster Groves.

Thrower put the squad, which has dwindled to 76 from the 85 who reported originally, through its first scrimmage Tuesday night. He plans a game- like scrimmage on Friday evening (Sept. 5) to wrap up the first week of workouts with the pads.

"Right now the boys are pretty sore and some are bruised up,"commented the Indian coach. "But on the whole they reported in good shape and we're just about where we thought we would be at this point. We're hitting pretty good. We'll have a more solid impression of the players after the Friday scrimmage which we plan to film."

Two- a- day workouts will continue for the Indians through next Tuesday (Sept. 9).

Hopkins Promoted To Sergeant

BLOOMFIELD- Highway Patrol Cpl. Vernon Hopkins has been promoted to sergeant and has assumed new duties in charge of the patrol's Fredericktown zone.

Hopkins, a trooper since 1955, replaces Sgt. Charles Whitehead at Fredericktown. Whitehead recently was named to attend the Northwestern Traffic Institute for a nine-month administrative course and will be assigned to the Highway Patrol's General Headquarters in Jefferson City, according to Capt. E. F. Dampf, Troop E. Commander.

Hopkins, age 37, is a native of Bloomfield and has been assigned to this area of the Patrol since 1960. He formerly was stationed in the Hayti area.

No Motive Unearthed In Shooting

CHARLESTON - Lyman Estes, Charleston, charged in the Sunday shooting of three persons, remained silent and Mississippi County authorities are still in the dark in regard to the motive in the triple shooting.

Two of those shot, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jackson, are in fair condition in Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston. The third, Auby Griffin, has been transferred to a Memphis, Tenn., hospital and is listed in serious condition.

The Sheriff's Department in Charleston said the incident took place late Sunday afternoon. The Jacksons were shot as they talked with Mrs. Beatrice Parafzva at her home and Griffin was shot through the screen door of his home as he sat in the house.

Estes was captured by the highway patrol and Cape County sheriff's deputies near Burfordville later Sunday night. Authorities said this morning he has remained silent since his capture. Sheriff W. J. Simmons said today three charges of assault with intent to kill have been placed against Estes.

The contemporary romantic comedy will be produced for the screen by Robert Arthur, in association with Mladin Zarubica. Universal also has the film rights to Webb's recently published "Love, Roger."

School Offers to Renew Controlled Smoking Plan

HIGHLANDS, N.J. (AP) — Henry Hudson Regional School students will be offered another year of controlled smoking on the premises.

"It worked so well last year," said Haroid Schaible, the high school superintendent, "that I'm going to offer it to the new student council."

An experiment last year permitted students in grades 9 through 12, who are 16 years of age or over, to smoke during their lunch hour in a small patio area outside the school building.

Students must have the written permission of their parents to obtain a smoking permit. Last year, 78 students out of 735 had the privilege.

Schaible said the plan cut unauthorized smoking "by almost 100 per cent."

Any student caught smoking illegally can be suspended for five days for a first offense and ten for a second. He can be expelled altogether by the school board for a further offense.

The workshop contract is for $97.3 million and the airlock contract, $87.4 million.

Senath Band Director Takes Own Life

The young teacher - who had taught in the school system during the 1968-69 school year - took his life approximately 24 hours after handing in his resignation to the Senath - Hornersville school board.

Ivy's body was discovered at 10:30 a.m. Saturday by Dunklin County Deputies Radford Raines and Juston Huggins. Senath - Hornersville Principal Wayne Woods, Superintendent Jack Lincoln and Senath Chief of Police Willard Hampton. Deputy Raines said Ivy failed to keep a 9 a.m. appointment with Woods that morning.

Raines stated that Ivy had disconnected the gas wall heater in his apartment and had attached a vacuum cleaver hose to the heater, which led to a plastic mask over Ivy's face. Investigating officers added that Ivy had covered himself with a blanket and a comforter, and was lying in the middle of the living room when his body was discovered. Officers said the apartment was completely filled with gas. No estimate was given on exactly how long the school teacher had been dead.

Jack Lincoln, superintendent of the Senath - Hornersville schools, said that Ivy was a talented band director and would be missed by the community and the students.

Services for Ivy were held at Laurel, Miss., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ivy live. Attending the funeral was a group of teachers who worked with Ivy.

Two Men Hurt in Collision

MOREHOUSE -Two young Oklahoma men, the names of whom were unavailable this morning, were seriously injured in a car- truck collision at 10 a.m. at the intersection of route E and Highway 60 near the Running Horse Cafe.

The injured, both traveling in the auto, were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Raymond Lawerence, city marshal, said the passenger in the auto had a broken right leg. The driver, he said, had serious cuts.

The GMC truck was driven by William McClain, Jonesboro, Ark., who was not seriously injured. Marshal Lawrence said both vehicles were traveling east. McClain apparently was attempting to make a left turn toward Morehouse and the car was attempting to pass. The truck was damaged in the front.

The car was damaged on one side.

Highway Patrolman Bernie Rapert, Charleston, investigated.

What We Think About It

By Lt. Colonel Norman E. May of Warwick, Bermuda

SUMMARY

I have stated and defined what, to me, are the four fundamental reasons for the uncertainties and uneasiness felt today by right-thinking men in the free world.

Reasons one and two - knowledge and production - open to us a new world never before known or experienced, a world of limitless, almost frightening possibilities which, if properly developed, could lead to Utopia - to Professor Wald's "one world, a world for all men".

But we are hamstrung by reasons three - language and political philosophy, and reason four - Russia. To me, these are so intertwined and interrelated that it would seem nothing short of a full confrontation, an all out war, would, at this late date, stop Russia from achieving its goal of world domination. And of course the Russians know, and this is their strong hand or ace-in-the-hole, that we in the West realize that, if it came to an all-out war, there would be no pieces left for anyone to pick up.

But, if we have the courage, the sagacity, the determination and the leadership, we may yet achieve, by peaceful means, the objective as stated by George Orwell:

"to preserve mankind's ethical values, - honour, mercy, justice and respect for others". I suggest –

(a) that somehow, by education, propoganda, publicity campaigns, through the news media and by public demand, we must clarify our thinking and our vocabularies to restore the correct meanings to our words.

We must expose Communism as an unrealistic and unobtainable myth and, in so doing, cure or cleanse our news media, our teaching professions, our politicians and our students of their leftist, fifth-column thinking and activities.

We must insist that Governments, political parties and activist groups be described and be referred to and be named as they really are. Let us stop using this nasty and misleading word "communist". Let us not accept such names as

"the Democratic Republic of Poland"

"Students for a Democratic Society" etc. etc.

let us refer to them instead as:

"the Police State of North Korea"

"the Police State of Poland"

"Students for an Anarchist Society" etc. etc.

I do not suggest a witch-bunt as per the late Senator McArthy, but if right thinking men would speak up and refute and refuse subversive language, the fundamental issues we face would be clarified in the public mind.

(b) Rather than a full confrontation or all-out war with Russia, let us, the nations of the free world, deflate the Russian power image and influence through, and by strengthening, the United Nations.

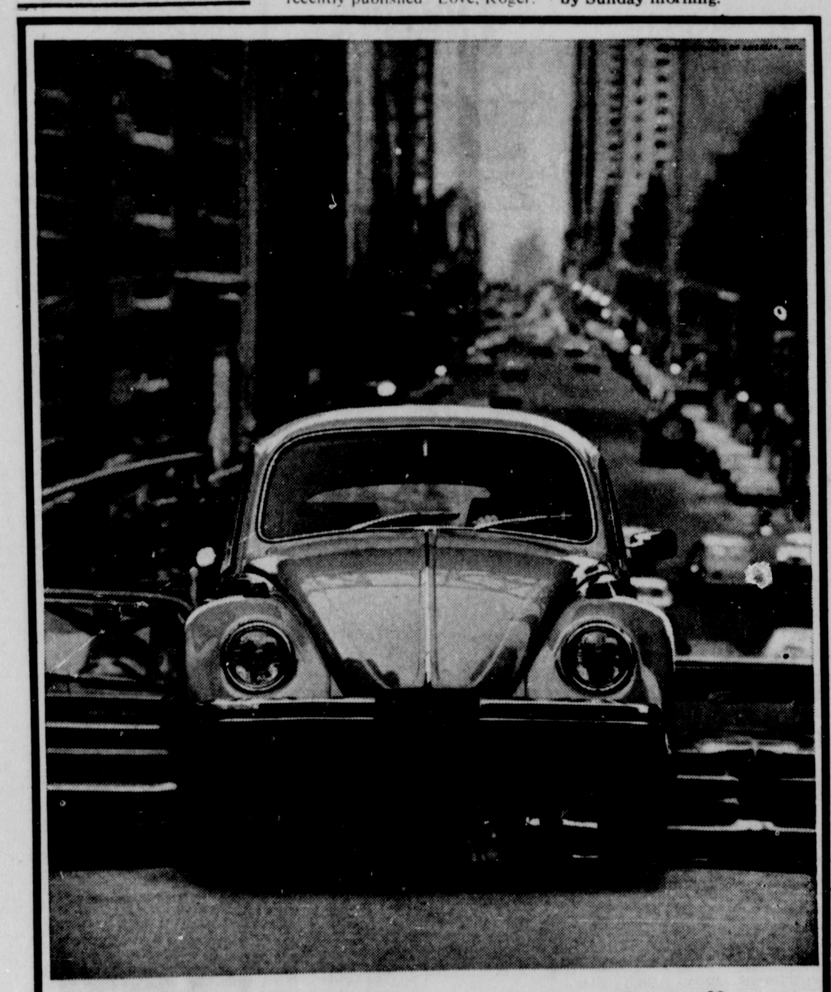
Normandy School Tax Increase Passes on Seventh Attempt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The suburban Normandy school district, rebuffed six times in efforts to win approval of a 91-cent school tax increase, was successful at the polls Wednesday.

District residents voted 9,003-3,850 on a proposal to raise the school levy to $5.18 per $100 assessed valuation for two years. A two-thirds majority was required.

School officials immediately announced schools would open Monday. No opening date had been set pending the outcome of the tax referendum.

The Wellston School District, also a six-time loser at the polls, will try again Monday for a 98 cent increase in its operating levy.



After you've paid for it, it starts paying for itself.

We didn't want our bug to be a hog.
That's why we made it go about 27 miles to a gallon of gas.
And why we persuaded it to take pints of oil instead of quarts.
And why we gave it an air-cooled engine. (Air is free. Antifreeze isn't.)
And why we put the engine in the back so you get more push from the rear wheels. (And less pull from tow trucks.)

And that's why at trade-in time if things are still the same as they have been, you can count on getting back more of your initial investment of $1,895 than practically every other car owner gets of theirs.
Which is only right.
After all, why shouldn't the car that's been saving you money while you own it do the same when you sell it?

Jack Anderson Special

Editors:

Drew Pearson's death was a shock to countless people, and it is a saddening loss to those of us who knew him as a friend and who worked with him.

Drew Pearson died knowing that his crusade for honesty in high places would not die with him. He had planned for Jack Anderson to carry on the Washington Merry-Go-Round.

Anderson will carry on and I am confident he will make the Merry-Go-Round an even more powerful scourge of the dishonest and those who fail in their sworn responsibilities to the public and the nation.

While Jack Anderson has been associated with Drew Pearson for 22 years, he is, as you know, an investigative reporter--call him Muckraker if you will--in his own right.It was Anderson who launched the first investigation of Sen. Joe McCarthy. He broke the first stories about Sherman Adam's activities on behalf of Bernard Goldfine; his investigation led to the ouster of Richard Mack of the Federal Communications Commission; he broke the story of how the TFX plane contract was shifted from Boeing to General dynamics; he revealed the facts that led to the censure of Senator Thomas Dodd; he dug up evidence that led to Congressional discipline of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell and, more recently, he has disclosed grave discrepancies in Senator Ted Kennedy's version of the death of Mary Jo Kopechne.

These facts assure us all, I believe, that the Merry-Go-Round willl continue with more vigor than ever; that Jack Anderson does not fear the good fight and that he will build up as fine a list of enemies as did Drew Pearson.

Sincerely,
John Osenenko.

A personal note to Editors:

Not along ago, a derogatory remark by an editor came to our attention. The editor clearly had been misinformed about an incident, so I asked the late Drew Pearson what we should do to straighten him out.

"Just write good columns," Drew replied laconically.

I know this would be Drew's advice to me now. He would urge me to forget today's sorrow and concentrate on tomorrow's column. He would remind me that we had never produced an expose by waiting around for the offenders to call a press conference to confess their wrongdoing.

Drew believed passionately that the Democratic machinery should never be permitted to run so smoothly and so silently that there weren't a few of us to grate against the massive wheels of big government. He made the Washington Merry-Go-Round an institution that opposed the venal and exposed the corrupt. He sought to make it a voice for the voiceless, a defender of the downtrodden.

Every day, we receive 200 to 300 letters, most of them from the disadvantaged, the disaffected and the disillusioned, who have lost faith in the regular channels of government. Drew Pearson felt it was important for the health of the nation that these people have a champion.

For 22 years--10 as a partner--I have worked with Drew to achieve these goals. The nation, I sincerely believe, will be worse off without him. But I will do my best to continue this work.

Great Dane Receives Gold Hero's Medal

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A great Dane named Top was honored as a hero Thursday night at a dinner.

Top, credited with saving the lives of two children within eight weeks, received a gold medal, a gold-plated lead and collar, gold plaque, custommade blanket and a year's supply of dog food. His owners, Miss Norma Clark and Alan Patzwaldt, an actor from Los Angeles, will receive a $1,000 savings bond.

Last spring, an 11-year-old girl named Margo Tacot, a neighbor of Patzwaldt, took the great Dane for a walk. She started to cross a street, not noticing a truck bearing down on her. Top is credited with pushing the girl backward to safety. He was struck by the truck, however, and suffered a fractured leg and broken ribs.

A week after the cast was removed from his leg, Top was allowed out in the yard of the apartment house where Patzwaldt lives.

Moments later, Patzwaldt said, Top was back at the doorway, barking furiously and dripping wet. When Patzwaldt opened the door, Top bounded to a swimming pool in the yard.

Patzwaldt said he found a 2-year-old boy at the bottom of the pool, dived in and brought the boy up. The actor applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The boy was taken to a hospital and recovered.

Top's actions led to his selection as dog hero of the year in a promotion by a dog food manufacturer, Ken-L Ration, which sponsored the dinner.

State Asked To Mediate Pay Dispute

MALDEN — Negotiations between the Malden Board of Public Works and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have reached a stalemate and the state has been asked to step in as a mediator.

Employees of the Board of Public Works voted 18-4 last November to have the I.B.E.W. represent them in collective bargaining with the City of Malden. They are seeking pay increases, more fringe benefits and better working conditions.

Contract negotiations between the union representative, Don Keith, and the Board of Public Works have been underway for several months, but apparently have reached an impasse.

One of the main points of contention has been the inclusion of supervisory personnel within the union. Supervisors and office personnel were permitted to be included in the vote last fall and now the City of Malden is seeking to have them excluded.

A date for the mediation hearing has not been announced.

Brenda Palmer In Talent Show

BERNIE--Miss Brenda Palmer of Bernie has been invited to appear in the Talent Show of the Memphis Mid-South Fair. The Fair is scheduled to open Sept. 19, at the Fairground in Memphis.

Historian's Charles Of Sweden

By that test, R. M. Hatton succeeds brilliantly. To most readers, Charles XII is a misty personality at best. Few nonprofessionals today can recall with what awe he once was regarded, a sort of superman who flashed across the north European horizon in the early 18th century when Sweden imprudently had managed to become a major power; dashed off furiously to defend he territories which were like hostages amid rising East European nations; then, after brilliant victories, saw his own and Sweden's glory tarnished in the unconquerabie stretches of Russia.

An absolute monarch, Charles was no ordinary tyrant. He had definite intellectual and artistic interests, like some other members of the Vasa dynasty before him; for instance, Gustavus Adolphus and Queen Christina, who was Charles' godmother.

One cannot help admiring his military genius, his over-all magnanimity, and the bravery that made him expose himself excessively on the battlefield. And there is pathos at the last watching him show himself, to help the troops' morale, above a shallow trench on the rocky, frozen Norwegian front. For his pains he received a bullet that crashed through his skull from temple to temple, symbolizing the beginning of the end of Sweden's big-power status.

Prof. Hatton, who teaches international history at the University of London, has mastered the details of Charles and his time and described them in simple, forceful prose. And she has succeeded in a task that must have been difficult: reconstructing the details of old battles with understanding and clarity.

It is good to have such a restoration of Charles' image. For a long time it would have been difficult to prove even old Dr. Samuel Johnson's claim for the tragic young king's final purpose for mankind: "To point a moral, or adorn a tale." The moral he would point today would be the great danger of overextended commitments in a hostile world.

Community Concert Series-Artists from Near and Far

BY BARBARA LACY

If the Sikeston Commmmunity Concert series needed a slogan; (it doesn't for it lives on the excellent record of it's past performences).

If the series needed a slogan, this years schedule would provide an easy one: "Artists from Near and Far."

From the United States will come to the Don Shirley trio, a much acclaimed music group who play jazz with as much easy delight as they play folk or classical music.

"We are thrilled to have Mimi perform for us," Mrs. Keith Collins, said. "This will really be a special season."

Memberships will go on sale, during the last two weeks of September under the direction of Mrs. Howard Johnson. Once again, area residents and area music lovers are reminded that only season ticket holders will be able to attend the concerts.

Opening the season, Oct. 27, will be the trio.

Since 1945 Shirley has delighted United States audiences with piano playing, compositions and recordings. A side-light of Shirley's career few music lovers may be aware of is his doctor of philosophy degree in psychology and his teaching and research in the field of music and psychology.

Shirley's musical popularity was never so well shown as on March 22, 1968, when 2,784 fans asked for five encores after his debut at Carnegie in New York City.

On his first tour in 1962-63, his trio visited 50 cities, all of which were sold out in advance. Since then he has visited 70 to 90 cities each season. He also performs as soloist with an increasing number of symphonies each year.

Shirley is a "free" artist whose musical ability has won him admirers as diverse as classicist Igor Stravinsky to the king of American music, Duke Ellington.

Whether he plays classical, folk or modern music, it emerges as an exciting musical invention. A combination of imagination and musicianship is Shirley's trademark.

Some of his fame comes from his career as a recording artist. Some 20 albums made earlier are now collector's items. Recent albums still available are "Water Boy", "Don Shirley in Concert" recorded live at Carnegie Hall, and "The Gospel According to Don Shirley".

Shirley was born in Kingston, Jamaica. His mother, was his first teacher and his progress so fast that at the age of nine he was invited to study at the Leningrad Conservatory of Music.

As a composer Shirley has written four organ symphonies, numerous pieces for piano, two string quartets and a piano concerto.

His career as a performer and composer came to a sudden halt when he deserted music and went into psychology with serious intent. He earned a in psychology with Phi Beta Kappa honors and then taught in leading colleges and universities of the United States and the Caribbean.

It was while Shirley was at the University of Chicago a widely publicized series of 'thrill killings took place in New York's Central Park. Because of an uniformed attempt to link much of the delinquency with the stimulus of certain types of music. Shirley was awarded a grant to study the alleged music-crime relationship.

His approach to his research was an unusual one. He first devised a number of musical arrangements offering various combinations of keys, chords progressions and varying dynamics. He performed these in a small Chicago club and with some students, studied scientifically, the reactions and responses of the audiences. The public, unaware it was the subject of an experiment, flocked to the exciting new sounds--"mellow dynamite" as one writer called them.

He is more than well rounded. His knowledge resembles that of the reniassance man. He has studied liturgical arts at Washington's Catholic University. His work on Ambrosian and Gregorian chants qualifies him as one of the few experts in the field.

He has been a world traveler. He knows most of the middle eastern languages and has read the Koran in its original Arabic. He has designed sets for television shows and has done serious painting.

He also puts on a good show.

The second in the concert series will be the Reyes/Soler Ballet Espanol De Madrid, March 10.

Ramon de Los Reyes grew up among the gypsies and begin dancing when he was nine years old. He had his first lesson at age 17. After compulsory military service he formed his own trio which opened at the Hilton Hotel in Madrid.

They toured Spain and England as well as some of the United States.

After several other tours with other groups, he felt ready to form a special ballet group---the Reyes/Soler Ballet Espanol de Madrid.

His partner, Lola Soler, is a striking, exotic beauty who displays the characteristics of an aristocratic father and a beautiful gypsy mother. She was sent to England to study classical ballet, which she did for many years but the call of the gypsy within her was overwhelming.

She returned to Spain and to the tantalizing Flamenco dances.

Their program is not limited to any particular epoch or region of Spain but covers all the most colorful phases of Spanish dance from Spain and Latin America. They do the fiery Flamenco of Andalucia and the charming shepherd dances of the Basque country. In costumes spectacularly beautiful and authentic.

Probably the most looked forward to, the Mimi Allen Concert will be April 14.

Mimi Allen, who wanted to be a harpist when other little girls were thinking of movie careers, has successfully combined a professional life with the role of housewife and mother.

Sikestonites are accustomed to seeing her name in the Daily Standard as she prepares for a tour, cuts a record or makes a television special.

Some probably remember her mother as a fine pianist and Mimi giving her first piano radio concert when she was five.

In order to find a harp teacher she went to Stephens College, at that time a high school and a junior college. Mimi swept through the four-year curriculum in three years, picking up two scholarships for further study on the way.

At 18 she was in New York City studying piano and harp privately and picking up extra courses at the Julliard School of Music.

At 20, she started her concert career playing with the New York symphony, touring, teaching.

But people who know Mimi know that she has not neglected other interests to play the harp. After marrying Kenneth Smitten, who isn't a musician but an agricultural engineer from San Francisco, the Smittens moved to Sikeston.

Mimi began freelancing, picking and choosing concerts to give, tours to make. She has toured the 48 continental states, Mexico, pre-Castro Cuba, Canada and Italy, giving concerts, teaching, writing and performing scores for movies. She has immersed herself in every fact of the harp.

But it's not often she performs in Sikeston.

SIKESTON'S OWN MINI ALLEN will conclude the Community Concert series with harp music on April 14.

THE REYES/SOLER Ballet Espanol de Madrid dance company from Spain will appear in Sikeston March 10.

The parade will start at 2:30 p.m. through the downtown area east on Malone, south on Pine and break up arriving at the field house.

At 1 p.m. candidates for Shrine officers will go to a room at the Senior high school field house on South Pine street to be checked in and given instruction on events of the program.

The first and third sections of the ceremonial will be held at 4 p.m. Dinner will be served in the high school cafetorium at 5:30 p.m. The second section will be held at 7:30 p.m.

PREACHER DIES

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — An African preacher collapsed and died in his pulpit with the words "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh" on his lips.

A member of the Apostolic Faith Church at Hammanskraal near here said guest preacher William Kau Mosue, 39, was delivering a sermon when he "suddenly became pale and his tone changed. He shouted at the top of his voice 'The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh' and dropped dead with the Bible still in his hand. To the congregation, it was a token of his good deeds and words that the Lord took him away then."

ARMED FORCES

CLARKTON--Pfc. Charles Jones of Clarkton was awarded the silver star for gallantry in action while serving as a medic with Company D, 1st Battalion, 5th Infantry, in the Republic of Vietnam.

Official Army records show that on Nov. 29, 1968, while on a road clearing operation, a command detonated claymore mine wounded several men. Enemy small arms fire ensued but Private Jones, with complete disregard for his own safety, moved to the wounded men. As the wounded men were being evacuated by helicopter, a booby trap was detonated, wounding every man near the dust off. Private Jones, at first stunned, moved to the aid of the wounded personnel. His valorous actions contributed immeasurably to the saving of lives. Pvt Jones' personal bravery, aggressiveness, and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division and the United States Army.

Jones underwent basic training at Fort Campbell, Ky., and medical training at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. He left for Vietnam in August, 1968 and returned to the States Aug. 21 of this year after a year's tour of duty there. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Jones of Clarkton and is a 1967 graduate of Clarkton High School.

Managing Editors

Mailings started this week on 'Footprints On The Moon," AP's epic story of man's first landing on the moon -- a feat that will rank throughout history along with the greatest of explorations.

By now, most of you have seen an advance copy of the book. We don't have to say much more about it because the quality and beauty of this memorable edition speak loudly enough.

One publisher, Arthur P. Irving of the Glens Falls, N.Y., Post, wrote of "Footprints On The Moon":

"It is a well written and beautifully illustrated book. Please permit me to extend to you and your associates who participated in this work my congratulations on their splendid accomplishment."

"The book review for Stars & Stripes said that "Footprints On The Moon" is a "fine and aluable book that should never become rare. It belongs on the shelf of all those who lived the long, anxious years of the Space Race -- as a heritage to be read by those who did not."

Public interest in the book -- judging by the numbers of your readers who continue to send in their order - remains at a high peak. As of this writing, nearly 200,000 copies of "Footprints On The Moon' had been spoken for.

Promotion on your pages remains the successful key to this beautiful book, especially now with interest still at a peak.

Sincerely,
Dan Perkes

Food for Dogs Must Be Clearly Labeled

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

A group of enterprising dog food manufacturers decided to create a more appetising menu to woof-up the sales appeal of their products. Consequently, they re-labelled their products with such succulent names as "Horse Meat Loaf"; "Irish Horse-Meat Stew"; and the ever popular "Horse Meat a la Mode."

Unfortunately for the manufacturers, however, the authorities in one state refused to swallow the menu. And a law was enacted that specifically prohibited the use of the tasteful names chosen by the manufacturers for the promotion and sale of dog food. Barking their displeasure, the manufacturers attacked the validity of the law in court.

"The law's an unfair restraint on trade," they doggedly argued. "We've got a right to make our labels as appealing to our customers as possible."

"Why?" queried the state's attorney. "Dogs can't read. On the other hand, the law protects shoppers from grabbing a can off a shelf thinking it's meat loaf or stew for human consumption. Without some protection for the hurried shopper, dinner-time would be chow-time, only if you had a chow."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider the law a necessary protection for shoppers?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that not only should the labels be discontinued, but that dog food should be labeled "unfit for human consumption." In that way, concluded the judge, harassed housewives, trying to cut down on the high cost of living, would be deterred from giving it a try by serving it up to their hungry and unsuspecting husbands on the dinner menu.

Koreans Say Crime Must Be Admitted

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea said Thursday it will not release the three crewmen of an American helicopter shot down Aug. 17 unless the United States admits they were on a criminal mission.

The United States said it would admit only that the helicopter had entered Communist territory inadvertently in violation of the Korean armistice agreement, and would give assurances that such an incident would not recur.

Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun, representing North Korea at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission called to discuss the release of the three Americans, demanded an "unconditional apology" admitting that the helicopter was on a "criminal mission," as well as a written assurance that there will be no more such incidents in the future.

U.S. Marine Maj. Gen. Arthur H. Adams replied: "It is preposterous to state that we dispatched the unarmed helicopter willfully or with any hostile intention."

Adams repeated the U.S. contention that the helicopter strayed over North Korea accidentally while on a training flight, and that it had no weapons or advanced navigational equipment aboard.

Despite the refusal of Adams to offer any more than an apology, there was speculation that eventually the United States would secure the release of the airmen by the same device that freed the crew of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo.

After the 82 Navy men had been held for 11 months, the United States signed a statement admitting the ship was spying in North Korea's territorial waters. But just before he signed the document at a ceremony in Panmunjom, the U.S. representative, Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, announced that the State Department had instructed him to repudiate the statement before signing it.

U.S. officials admitted that the procedure of denying the statement and then signing it was "kooky," but they said it seemed to satisfy the North Koreans and resulted in the return of the captives.

The three men now held by North Korea are WO Malcolm W. Loepke, the pilot, of Richmond, Ind.; Capt. David H. Crawford, Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman H. Hofstatter, Lowpoint, Ill.

At an Armistice Commission meeting last Friday, Lee said Crawford and Hofstatter were seriously injured and Loepke was slightly injured.

Yoke Still on Czechs But Spirit Runs Free

By DON GRAFF

For a heart-stopping moment on the anniversary of the Soviet occupation, it appeared that demonstrations might go too far, goading the oppressors into an even more brutal assault on the free spirit than took place a year ago.

But Czechoslovaks did not go too far. For one day they made unmistakably clear that while the loss of their freedom might be a fait accompli, it would never have their acquiesence. Then life returned to normal, if the ever-present awareness of foreign troops poised to crush any attempt to take your destiny into your own hands can be called normal.

The men who hold power in Prague today by right of Soviet bayonets alone deceive no one, least of all themselves, with their Communist phrase book assertions that the demonstrations were the work of "criminal elements" which failed to gain mass support. They know, as the world knows, that the demonstrators spoke for the people, were the people—Czechoslovaks telling the world that one year after the invasion their will and spirit had not been broken.

Even the Soviets must realize by now that with their brutalizing of Czechoslovakia they have at the most bought time, but at what fearful cost. They have not made Czechoslavakia or any other nation of Eastern Europe a more secure or reliable satrapy. They have not crushed the will to freedom in Czechoslovakia or anywhere else in their system, not even at home. They have, in fact, given it new focus and new martyrs.

The will to freedom is contagious. It can never be stamped out completely, and given time it must spread. The time the Soviets have purchased will surely run out for them.

Laser 'Tape' to the Moon

Now we know.

The moon is 232,271.3816 miles from earth—about 130 feet, give or take a few either way, more distant than measurements to date had indicated.

This is the finding of a laser beam which scientists, after several unsuccessful tries, have finally succeeded in bouncing off the reflector left on the lunar surface by Apollo 11 astronauts Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin.

Strange, that the mission which proved the moon is not unreachable should also reveal that it is farther away than we had thought.

SIKESTON
Children Will Star In Movies

Melton Barker will arrive in Sikeston soon to produce a two- reel comedy, according to an announcement by Mr. Charles Calhoun, manager of the Malone Theatre. The picture will be made in Sikeston and around 100 children will be used in the cast.

Mr. Barker is a veteran of this field, having spent 25 years in the business, training children and producing film with them. A number of movie stars were discovered by Mr. Barker; among them, Spanky Mcfarland, the little fat boy in "Our Gang Comedies."

The purpose of making the movie here in Sikeston and a number of other towns - is to see if enough talent can be found to make a TV series similar to "Our Gang" Comedies. All types of talent are needed to make a picture. Mr. Barker says it will take about two weeks to get the cast together and rehearsed so that they will be able to perform for the cameras. Then it will take around one week to do the shooting.

After the cast has been selected, there will be two or three days of rehearsals, teaching them to act before the sound camera. There will be a small charge for training. However, there will be no charge for registering and tryouts.

Children between the ages of 3 and 15 wishing to try out for parts must register at the Malone at once. When the casting director arrives in town, he will get in touch with those who have registered and arrange for tryouts.

Loss of Ho's Rallying Power Could Have Eventual Impact

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In the long run, Ho Chi Minh's departure from the stage can have a decided impact on events in Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

Ho's passing can prove a strong blow to North Vietnamese and Liberation Front morale. Particularly in his later years, Ho was not the stereotyped figure of a Communist strong-man ruler, but rather a symbol, a father figure, a personality who cannot be replaced.

It was in the name of "Uncle Ho" that appeals went from Hanoi to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong, exhorting them to pursue protracted war to the finish, even if it should take 20 years. It was in Ho's name that slogans were fashioned for the unification of Vietnam. It was Ho whose name a dozen years ago was considered so powerful that it, alone, was believed capable of swinging a popular vote in any election. That may have changed under Communist rule in the North, but the name remained potent medicine among many in the South.

Thus it was the name of Ho, rather than the office of the presidency, which carried the authority with the Laodong (Communist) party in the North and with the guerrillas in the South. The question of a successor as president is thus of importance mostly in what it may reveal about the present power structure.

Ho frequently was believed to have been the arbiter of intraparty disputes and the last word in settlement of such disputes among members of what appeared from time to time to be a divided Politburo. His presence could have been sufficient to keep others from squabbling among themselves for power.

Until about five years ago there were strong signs of division in the Politburo along pro-Chinese and pro-Soviet lines. Much in the future depends upon the progress of Soviet Chinese hostility.

It is probable that North Vietnam's future rests in the hands of four top men—Le Duan, the party's first secretary; Truong Chinh, chairman of the National Assembly; Premier Pham Van Dong and Marshal Vo Nguyen Giap.

Chinh has the reputation of being strongly pro-Chinese. His name is an alias, dating from the days when he was with Mao Tse-tung in Yenan at the time of the historic "long march." Truong Chinh means "long-march," a token of his admiration for Mao. He was formerly known as Dang Xuan Khu.

A revolutionist since his youth in the 1920s, Chinh helped Ho and Pham found the Indochinese Communist party and was its propaganda director. He was its secretary general, operating out of China. in 1941, and again in the 1950s. Under Ho's Hanoi regime, Chinh slipped and was demoted for the failure of agriculture in the North, He bounced back, possibly through Peking's then strong influence in Hanoi.

Le Duan, now 62, once was considered pro-Chinese. He seemed to shift in the 1960s, after becoming the party's first secretary. Duan is believed to have a strong machine in the party membership. He was one of Ho's leading commanders in the South when the Vietminh were fighting the French. He is an expert on relations with other Communist parties and has traveled both to Moscow and Peking.

Premier Pham Van Dong, now 62, an early Ho associate, is considered pro-Moscow. He began serving Ho's cause in 1925 when he set up the main revolutionary base in South Vietnam. Since partition in 1954, he has been premier and at one time served simultaneously as foreign minister.

Giap, the defense minister who was architect of the 1954 Dienbienphu victory over the French, is primarily a military man. It is doubtful that he has vaulting political ambitions, but he could have army support in the arena. In any case, he would likely have a strongvoice in the outcome of any power realignment.

County Fair Will Open on Monday

DEXTER —The Stoddard County Fair is set to open here Monday and continue through Saturday, according to Dr. E. G. Bailey, Jr. general chairman.

The midway will open Monday night and on opening night, "Miss Stoddard County" and "Little Miss Stoddard County" will be selected to reign during the week of festivities.

The annual parade is set for Thursday and another highlight for the Thursday night session will be the Kids Pony Show.

A relatively new event in the fair, the pony show is for boys and girls 12 years of age and younger and will be held at the fair grounds on the airport.

There will be three classes of judging, the costume class for the rider and decorations for their ponies; the best rider, to be based on how the boys and girls handle their ponies in the show ring and in the pony under halter class, only the ponies will be judged.

All entries in each class will receive a ribbon; also first, second and third place ribbons will be awarded and the winners of each class will receive a champion's ribbon and trophy.

The champion of each class will then be judged to pick the Grand Champion of the Pony Show.

The trophies and ribbons will be presented by the winner of the Little Miss Stoddard County contest.

Two New Events

Also set for Thursday night is a pony pulling contest and according to the chairman of the event, Marty Poetz, several teams are expected to enter.

This is the first time at the Fair for such a contest and "everyone is invited," Poetz said.

Another "first" this year will be a swine carcass show. Wednesday will be the live show with weigh in time set for Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Ribbons will be awarded. Friday the carcass winners will receive prize money, according to a spokesman from Monarch Feed Mills, sponsor of the event.

There will be a host of other events during the six- day Fair including hundreds of Home Economics and Livestock exhibits along with carnival rides and other special events.

Four Snowbound Eskimos Die of Food Poisoning

CAPE DORSET, N.W.T. (AP) — Four Eskimos suffering from food poisoning died here today while waiting to be taken to Montreal, a hospital spokesman in Frobisher Bay said.

Eight other persons, whose condition remains uncertain, are still in Cape Dorset where a violent snowstorm is preventing the landing of a plane which is supposed to take them 1,250 miles south to a hospital in Montreal.

A doctor and a nurse from Frobisher Bay, 250 miles east, tried to land twice during the night, but were forced back by the snowstorm.

A spokesman at the Montreal General Hospital, where the victims are scheduled to be taken, said the Eskimos are suffering from botulism poisoning from canned food.

He said a small supply of serum antidote was given to the victims in Cape Dorset, but this is only a stopgap measure and it is absolutely necessary that they be taken to hospital as soon as possible.

Cannibalism The Rage in Film Festival

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Cannibalism is the rage this year at the Venice Film Festival.

One scene in Federico Fellini's "Satyricon," run three times Thursday for overflow crowds, shows the heirs of poet Eumolpus uncomfortably chomping on his remains. The dead man bequeathed his possessions only to those who would eat his flesh.

Pier Paolo Pasolini, who threw the festival into an uproar last year with his sex- and symbol-charged "Theorams," also did the man-eating bit this year. In his "Porcile" (Pigsty), French actor Pierre Clementi chews the remains of a soldier he has just killed. Later Clementi gets his—wild beasts devour him and his companions.

Among the Italian entries is "The Cannibals," directed by Liliana Cavani, but the cannibalism is largely symbolic. It's about an imaginary regime that prohibits its citizens from burying those killed during riots. But nobody eats anybody.

Joaquim Pedro de Andrade, a Brazilian, serves up feijoada, the melange of meats and black beans that is Brazil's national dish, in his "Macunaima." But it's a feijoada of cannibals, with a giant and his wife as the gastronomes.

De Andrade says his film is a parable, illustrating the dog-eat-dog competition in daily life.
